THE OFFICE OF CHRIST

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me: because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek. He hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound. To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all that mourn....That He might be glorified.

What the Press Says
of
The Shanghai Directory
(July Edition of the China Hong List)

"The volume is well worth the money asked for it, and it is as handy, neat and accurate a work as it has been our lot to see."—Shanghai Times.

"The task of apartment hunting will be reduced to a minimum by perusing the long list of apartment houses contained in the July edition of the Hong List."—China Press.

"It has been revised with the care which has become almost a tradition, and is as complete a register of residents, agents, hongs, as mortal man could devise. Its chief claim to popularity is not its compactness, nor its comprehensiveness, but its reliability. The volume has been brought up to date, and no business house in the city can afford to be without a copy of 'The Shanghai Directory' at hand. The little Red Riding Hood of the Bund publications merits praise, and deservedly gets it."—The Shipping Review and Shipping and Engineering.

The War is Spreading

EVEN to the vitamins, for we read in a local contemporary, on excellent medical authority that

"Most people know that the vitamins in general are labelled A,B,C,D, and E, and that B is sometimes called F, and E, and that B is sometimes called F, and G.

The situation at the most is said not to be greatly strained, but tension is expected to increase unless something is done about it.

Correspondence

IN PARENTHESIS

"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

Dear I.P.—I just thought it was better for you to know that the Chinese soldiers do not use the sneezing gas as reported by N.C.D.N. to-day (from Japanese sources). What they really use is sneezing powder, not gas, which they sprincle upon advancing Japanese. Just a friendly little joke. What is more, they make practice of rolling small bits of soap into balls and scattering them on the roads along which the Japanese are expected to advance. This, considering prevailing wet weather, is an excellent substitute for banana peel which, alas, is not available.

Don't bother to thank for the information.

Respectfully,
YOUR FAN.

Shanghai, Sept. 27.

"Respectfully!" Lawd luvaduck!

Success

Keep an eye on international developments. They are moving fast. In piling up world-wide public opinion for China, Japan is proving China's best friend!

All of which seems to show that Japan's friendly overtures to China are succeeding all along the line.

The Newer Warfare

As a Chinese military observer sums up the situation, the Japanese will obviously make a desperate attempt to punctuate the Chinese lines at two points, Kiangwan in the south and Lotien in the north.

Punctuating a defence is a very delicate military operation, performed with an acupunctuator!

A Protest

WE admit that a cruiser belonging to a certain nation is a bit of an eyesore to another certain nation, but really it's a bit thick to call her the Eczema.

Once More Into The Breach....

When unsportsmanlike dissension
nearly wrecked non-intervention
And the Chairman drew attention to the danger of a reef,
He left it to the Netherland to make them get together, and Invited an Eden formula before they came to grief.
The delegates with gratitude, assumed
a trusting attitude,
And Eden took the mandate wider
measures to propose;
While making no apology for either
ideology
Once more he conned the pros and cons and probed the cons and pros.
Rebellion reprehensible and breaches
indefensible
Combined to make him sensible that something must be waived,
So with realism splendid this is what he recommended—
"Let the practice be suspended and the principle be saved.
"Preserving in totality immaculate
neutrality,
To this one concrete reality we hold
through thick and thin.
We must recognize disparity and blink irregularity
And hope for solidarity till somebody can win.
"The best way to improve control is simply to remove control,
While keeping on belligerents a very careful watch;
Our observers keep in faction counting numbers in each faction,
And checking foreign aircraft on their rulers, with a notch."
This compromise, a victory for interests contradictory,
The plenary committee very cordially
endorsed;
All nations gave publicity to Eden's
elasticity
Allowing his proposals could be harmlessly enforced.
Then another armed occasion crying
out for mediation,
Loaded with congratulation Mr. Eden
was released,
For from Tokio and Peking again
they begged him to begin again
And arrange non-intervention for the saving of the East.

Reynard in "World Review."

Answers to Correspondents

Enquirer:—A military observer is one who observes military operations and then comes back and makes observations to the Press. A spokesman is one who says a lot but really tells little.

A Gloomy Forecast

From an editorial in a local contemporary:—

As noted students of Chinese history, the Japanese authorities must be able to recall that the founders of the Yuan Dynasty spent over 30 years to suppress "bandits" who were really Chinese patriots refusing to accept an alien rule, and an equal period to compose differences among the descendants of the conqueror himself.

If that means that the writer anticipates that the Chinese and Japanese are to continue mucking about like they are now for the next sixty years, we don't like the prospect at all.

Prognostication

To-day being Saturday, the day on which the Chinese always have control of the air, if you get what we mean, it is possible that there will be an air raid to-night. These Saturday bombings are the result of a cleverly thought out plan to prevent the Japanese troops from having their weekly bath, a particularly effective piece of frightfulness, about which it is expected Japan will appeal to the League of Nations.

Discomforting

Mr. Isumo—that name again,—Japanese Consul-General at Geneva, thinks at the moment it is best to let things take their course. In any event, he added, the intervention of a third party would be liable to cause complications.

Thus, for example, supposing Russia were to intervene matters would become complicated indeed. All that Japan wants in China is a fair field and no favour, but more especially the field.

MODERN LIMITATIONS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SHANGHAI'S SECURITY

Mr. Sowerby Elaborates

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—As a biologist it is one of my jobs to diagnose the species of various animals and plants. I am always being asked to identify specimens of this or that reptile, insect or even worm sent me by people whose curiosity has been aroused, and I pride myself on generally being able to give the correct answer. Yesterday it was what the Americans call a "stink bug," a few days before that a "crab-spider."

Mr. BRUCE LOCKHART, however, has me defeated. I cannot place him, as he seems to have characteristics belonging to so many different genera. In his many diatribes which used to enliven the correspondence columns of your valuable newspaper in the good old days of yore, but which have been conspicuous by their absence in more recent years, he always posed as the champion of the ordinary foreign Shanghai resident (his present concern for Chinese feelings seem to be a new phase), yet whenever anything to benefit Shanghai was proposed, he invariably launched a violent campaign against it either in your columns or else in his own saffron-coloured publication, "The Showdown." There was his opposition to the proposed "Civic Centre" plan, cited in his letter to your newspaper of September 29, and of which I am proud to say I was an ardent supporter, believing, as I do that the Shanghai International Settlement needs and should have some such public institution. Incidentally, I am more convinced than ever of this now that the Japanese have destroyed the fine Civic Centre established at Kiangwan by the Greater Shanghai City Government. Again, there was Mr. Lockhart's bitter attack upon the Foreign Y. M. C. A. when that institution made its drive for funds to erect its big building on Bubbling Well Road, which he dubbed the "Dollar Dosshouse," but which has proved an inestimable boon to countless homeless and friendless young men in Shanghai ever since its doors were opened. But let all that go: we are now concerned with the present and future welfare of Shanghai. Resorting to an old journalistic manœuvre he tries in his letter, already mentioned, to discredit the plan of establishing an internationally guaranteed neutral zone round Shanghai as a means of ensuring this city's future safety by quoting just so much of my letter on the subject as suits his purpose, which appears to be to stir up Chinese antagonism to the plan, and to add further bitterness to the Chinese cup of sorrow by making them think that people who are their friends are trying to make use of the present catastrophe as a pretext for "stealing" yet one more piece of Chinese territory. He very carefully omits to quote that part of my letter which is the crux of the whole matter and which points the way to the elimination of any question of infringement of China's sovereign rights or territorial integrity. Let me quote the passage:—

> As a matter of fact the whole question of China's sovereign rights in this connection would be automatically eliminated if China herself were to come forward with the request that the Foreign Powers should establish the much needed neutral zone for a given period of years, thus giving China sufficient time to place herself in the position to afford the required protection to Shanghai. This would be the ideal solution of the whole problem, and one to which Chinese leaders would do well to give serious consideration, the more especially as, in the event of a victory to Japan, they will most certainly be faced with having to concede some such "protected" zone, the protection of which will be undertaken by Japan. What that would mean to both Chinese and foreign interests in this area may be gauged by what has happened in Manchuria since the Japanese occupied that country.

Surely this does not suggest any idea of "stealing" Chinese soil. Is it impossible for the Chinese to believe that in putting forward such a suggestion one is actuated by a genuine concern for the future welfare of China and the Chinese as much as for that of foreigners who have made China and especially Shanghai their home? I, and many others with me, see Shanghai as the future hope of China, financially, industrially and commercially. Destroy Shanghai, or let it die on its feet as a result of lack of confidence in its future security, and you have destroyed the peg upon which the whole of China's economic future hangs. To change the metaphor, Shanghai is the pivotal point of China's modern economic organization, and, as such, needs safeguarding from any more of the wars with which this city has been visited periodically during the past two and a half decades, and each of which has proved more disastrous than the last. The point is, how is Shanghai to be protected from such catastrophes? Can China alone do it? Is there any indication that she is going to be able to do it in the near future?

Shanghai is faced with dangers and problems paralleled nowhere else in the world. It is a city strategically situated in a very vulnerable spot in the country to which it belongs, and containing and largely owing its prosperity to enormous foreign vested interests and a large and important foreign cosmopolitan community with various treaty rights designed for their protection. It may be, and on many occasions has been in the past, attacked or threatened by armies belonging to one or other of the factions in China during times of political unrest or upheaval. It is also open to attack from any foreign country at war with China. What other possible way is there of ensuring Shanghai's future safety than by international guarantee?

And when I advocate an international agreement or treaty to guarantee Shanghai's safety through neutralization, I do not visualize one of those toothless and useless instruments, such as the Kellogg Pact and the Nine Power Treaty, by which each signatory nation pledges itself to adhere to certain principles, but which does not make it binding upon the signatory nations to use force against any of their number violating those principles. I envisage an agreement or treaty that, besides being fair to China, will make it encumbent upon all the signatory nations to deal promptly and drastically with any nation even showing signs of violating it. If, for instance, such a treaty were to call for the presence of foreign military, naval or air forces as guards in this area, the moment any of the signatory countries were to engage in hostilities with Chinese forces, no matter in what part of China, and irrespective of whether or not war had been declared, the forces of that country in the Shanghai area would immediately be disarmed and interned locally, or evacuated to the nearest military or naval base of the country to which they belonged.

Such a neutral zone would have to be under the supervision of a very strong International Committee or Council, on which China would have to have a seat, but it would have nothing whatever to do with the civil administration of the area, which would be under the Chinese civil authorities as heretofore. Its sole concern would be Shanghai's safety from attack by any outside forces, no matter of what nationality.

I fully agree with Chinese distrust of treaties, but the trouble with the Chinese is that they have not altogether understood the treaties and pacts allegedly guaranteeing the maintenance of China's sovereign rights and territorial integrity. The various signatories of these each pledges itself to respect China's sovereign rights and territorial integrity, but, as already indicated, there is no clause in any of them which makes it binding upon any of the signatories to do anything if any other signatory breaks or repudiates them. It is left to each individual signatory to take whatever course it deems necessary or expedient, even though that course may be one of complete inactivity. China's misconception on this point has led her to believe that, in the event of any of the signatories of those treaties attacking China, the other signatories would intervene. The result is that she has been bitterly disappointed, and now is inclined to look askance at all treaties. Actually, however, Japan is the only country that has broken those treaties, in doing so taking advantage of America's oft-reiterated policy of refusing to be drawn into any foreign war, the fact that Great Britain's and France's hands have been completely tied as a result of the tense situation in Europe, and the further fact that Russia, not only has been having internal political troubles, but is at the moment more or less immobilized by the danger of attack from Germany or Italy or both in the event of her attacking Japan.

A treaty with teeth in it is what is needed for the future protection of Shanghai, and it is to be hoped that, if the powers that be decide to do something in this urgent matter, they will see to it that those teeth are there.

CHUNG SAN HOSPITAL

An Emergency Arrangement

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—We read with great interest your recent Editorial on the subject of "Medical Organization", and fully agree with your comment that the Chinese both government and the people should do their utmost in providing for the necessary care of the wounded soldiers who are fighting for our security and freedom. Your reference to Chung San Hospital as having been "left empty" is incorrect and quite misleading. The fact is that the hospital has been used continuously by the wounded soldiers up to September 22, and since then as an emergency hospital for cholera. Furthermore its entire staff of doctors and nurses have been working overtime in this and a number of other emergency hospitals of the Red Cross Society in the city. Your own correspondent had visited us a number of times and saw our work in active operation. After the outbreak of the hostility in Shanghai this hospital was designated as the 6th Emergency Hospital of the Red Cross Society of China, admitting both wounded soldiers and civilians. Besides, its O.P.D. building was used as a central collecting station where the wounded were brought in directly from the front, first aid treatment given in the earliest possible moment awaiting distribution to the various hospitals in the city. We are still carrying the latter work at present. Up till September 22, 420 wounded soldiers (totally 6825 hospital days) were admitted as in-patients, in addition to the caring of 2267 wounded in the collecting station.

Then on September 16, 17, and 18, when wounded soldiers were prohibited from entering the International Settlement and the French Concession on account of the cholera epidemic, steps were immediately taken with the health authorities concerned to find a solution; thereby the danger of infection from cholera may be reduced on the one hand and at the same time the wounded soldiers may continue to enter the settlement and the concession. In full realization of each other's objectives and with the spirit of co-operation, a satisfactory plan to meet with the requirements was happily worked out and put into effect. Among them was the allocation of Chung San Hospital as a temporary cholera hospital under the direction of a joint committee on which Drs. Rabaute, Duck, and Li of the three municipalities are represented. Wounded soldiers were quickly evacuated to the other hospitals in a day and the next day cholera patients were admitted. The new service assigned to the hospital has already shown to be an indispensable need by the fact that in six days' time since the opening, 352 cases have been admitted. Your statement that "Chung San Hospital has been left empty" does not therefore bear out in actual fact.

As a hospital, the administration has adopted the policy of placing its facilities at the disposal of the health authorities of the three municipalities who are in the best position to know the medical need in the community; and as a Chinese institution, if by becoming an emergency cholera hospital, vacant beds provided for the wounded soldiers in the hospitals in the International Settlement and the French Concession may be made available for them, we should even be more willing to abide by such an arrangement.

TRANSPORT CHARGES

Standard Rates

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—So much has been heard—and written—recently about the outrageous charges made by truck owners for their services in bringing out cargo from Hongkew and beyond that perhaps, in fairness to these gentry, a little light may be shown on the other side of the picture.

Nothing, of course, is to be said for those opportunists who are reported to have demanded $150 to $300 per trip, but there is a case for the apparently exhorbitant charge of $8 to $10 per hour which was the rate generally charged by the large transportation firms.

The standard charge for a 4-ton lorry at the present time is $6 per hour. For the journey into Hongkew it is necessary to replace the regular Chinese driver, who knows his vehicle, by a Russian picked up at a moment's notice, who may be, but generally is not, a careful driver. At any rate, he does not know his truck and therefore it cannot occasion any surprise that accidents occur, especially in such a jam as was lined up on the Bund last Sunday and Monday. For this risk of damage—a very real one—an additional $2 per hour is not unreasonable, and in this manner a rate of $8 per hour is arrived at for the use of the lorry, and for the day of 8 hours—$64. Additional arbitrary expenses are a Russian chauffeur at $10 and four labourers at $6 each. It will be seen, therefore, that a bill for a whole day's work approaching the $100 mark is easily within reach, and that without any excessive profiteering—except perhaps on the part of the Russian element.

If the arrangements made by the Japanese authorities render it impossible to make more than one trip, that surely is a misfortune for which the truck owners cannot be held responsible. It is for the owners of cargo at the other side of the creek to consider what it is worth to them to get it out, and decide accordingly.

The standard charge of $6 per hour referred to may seem excessive until one remembers that the public—in normal times—is quite happy to pay $4 per hour for a taxicab, which costs probably half as much to run as a 4-ton truck.

All boiled down, the basic cause of the dissatisfaction appears to be the undoubted fact that rates of cargo transportation have for many years been too low to be profitable, except perhaps to the native driver-owners who are for the time being out of the market.

Judged by the generally accepted rules of supply and demand truck owners, at the present time, are quite justified in charging whatever the market is ready to pay, and if they are offered $150 and upwards to bring out a load of valuable cargo no one can blame them for accepting.

People who regard the whole thing as a ramp are apt to overlook these trifling details.

MEDICAL ORGANIZATION

A Suggestion

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I notice in the daily papers the pressing need for Chinese surgeons to attend to the heroic soldiers putting up such a splendid resistance against the mechanized armed might of Japan, wounded in battle and who are transported to hospitals in Soochow, Hangchow, and other towns. There are many first rate Chinese foreign trained surgeons in Shanghai probably very anxious to take on the job if they could be released from attending wounded soldiers in hospitals in Shanghai. I know of at least thirty foreign doctors who would be only too pleased to help attend these soldiers in Shanghai and thus allow their Chinese confreres to get away to the outside hospitals.

If the Chinese Medical Association requested the Superintendents of the Country and General Hospitals to call for foreign doctors without doubt there would be an immediate and large response.

A Spirited Protest

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Your leader of September 30, couched in its usual admirable terms, extols the great service that Hongkong has rendered to our Shanghai womenkind. I do not think it is even known here that free cinemas, trams, cables, etc., were among the many generosities that would naturally be forthcoming in any British community. This is not, therefore, one of the "querulous" letters. What I am really taking exception to is the last paragraph but one, in which you state that "even the Chartered Accountant deigns to shelter himself under the mystical device "E. & O. E." While, of course, the implied compliment is only due meed to the hardest working, most necessary, but generally maligned members of the body commercial, nevertheless, your statement is base calumny, if not the foulest libel! In our legends we have the fantasy that, once upon a time, a balance sheet was signed "E. & O. E." It is told, however, that this was around the year 1904. Since then, in common with the rest of mankind, we have risen to higher things and we are now in the happy position, with the banks, of being entirely incapable of making mistakes.

According to the best authorities, when we do achieve an error and/or misdemeanour, "E. & O. E." would be of no avail and we would have to pay just the same. An apology is, I think, our only due and proper right.

FOR GOOD TIMES AS USUAL

How to Make the Most of These Short Evenings

Now that stout-hearted Shanghailanders have settled down to business as usual, the complementary slogan "Pleasure When Possible" is coming in for the attention it rightly deserves. All work and no play makes Jack not only a dull but often a jittery boy and recreation is a very useful item in keeping the good old morale up to its highest level.

So with a "what's the use of worrying?" Shanghai packs up its troubles in its old kit bag and steps out of an evening. Curfew rings all too soon, but there is much that can be done if only one starts out early enough and the crowds which fill the night clubs seem bent on getting the maximum enjoyment from every moment so that one really has a large evening before the orchestra plays its syncopated version of "Taps," "Goodnight, Sweetheart," "Home, Sweet Home" or any other of the last dances.

The early hours which Shanghai is keeping make people keen on a bit of a change in the evenings and there is no opportunity of acquiring that morning-afterwards head. The various resorts are on their mettle to provide the best possible fare and the musicians and entertainers are in fine form. So don't mope at home trying to keep tabs on the firing. These clubs are as safely located as your homes and a jolly evening out will help you forget the cares of the moment.

Welcome to Kavkas

If one is fed-up with the current hostilities, if business is bad and the house seems horribly lonely without the wife and children, it only makes matters worse to sit at home brooding over the situation. Write your letter to your evacuees and then toddle along to Kavkas in 643 Avenue Joffre, easily accessible.

There is a cheery atmosphere here and a genuine welcome. The winter season is just opening and every effort is being put forth to make this the best season yet. The intimate American bar has attractive hostesses to entertain one and there are dancing partners for lonely men, who are there to make the evening pass pleasantly, without any additional charge to the patron. The dining-room, where delicious Russian and Caucasian specialities are served, is spacious enough for large parties but it also has semi-private alcoves.

The orchestra will play your favourite classical selection or the latest jazz hit for dancing. The drinks are the best of their kind and the choice is wide. A feeling of bohemian comraderie pervades the place and assure a delightful evening.

Arcadia's Charm

Arcadia! The name itself is an invitation, and an invitation which one will wish to accept again and again! Set in a charming garden, this beautiful house with its gracious dignity welcomes one on the threshold, beckons one to its jolly cocktail bar where pretty hostesses add charm to the drinks they proffer. The food, which specializes in Russian dishes, is remarkably good and reasonably priced. Kalivoda's orchestra, equally at home in classical or dance music and Nick Kniazeff's ballet in a lively floor show complete an ideal evening's entertainment.

Vienna Gardens

Having done its bit for humanity in one way, Vienna Gardens are now free to return to the service of raising the morale of the community by furnishing wholesome recreation and a chance to relax. The reopening of this popular resort is good news, especially as it means that a hundred attractive hostesses will welcome patrons. Music master Arnos and his boys have a fine orchestra with all the latest melodies. With excellent drinks and refreshments a delightful evening is assured. Men in uniform are welcomed.

"Chez Rovere"

"Drop in at 'Chez Rovere,'" is the cry. You will find that the genial proprietor, M. Louis Rovere, is always at home to you and anxious to do his hospitable best for all, no matter what time of day you come. Stop by for a "quick one." It may not be as quick as you intend, for the place has a charm which keeps one there, but one is welcomed if it be only to sip a single drink, to relax and to feel oneself really at home.

On the other hand, if one wishes to compliment one's friends by offering them a tiffin or dinner which is worthy the attention of real connoisseurs, then one may ask M. Rovere to arrange a meal which shall include some of the notable dishes which have made the French cuisine famous all over the world. The list of specialities is much too long to quote, but one might mention amongst the many delicacies, their Escargots de Bourgoyne or, Soupe a l'Oignon. Ou la, la, but these are dishes to dream about, to rave over, real cordon bleu affairs! If you wish to recapture the atmosphere of Paris as well as to sample some of its most delicious food, be sure to vist "Chez Rovere."

"D.D.'s Café"

"D.D.'s" has come to be a synonym for entertainment de luxe, a rendezvous for the elite. This popular night club is versatile in its features and whatever time one visits it there is always appropriate entertainment. Now that most of us are stepping out early, "le five o'clock" is a favourite social function and tea at "D.D.'s" in the tastefully decorated rooms on the ground floor is a real occasion, with a fine brew of tea, delicious sandwiches and tempting cakes served in appetizing fashion.

Those who prefer something stronger than the choicest Keemun or fragrant Orange Pekoe will find their wants met in the cheery cocktail bar, presided over by charming hostesses.

CHEZ ROVERE

A dinner, coffee and cigars,
Of friends, a half a score,
Each favourite vintage in its turn —
What man could ask for more?

A meal at Chez Rovere is always an occasion, for the cuisine is so delicious that the diner feels he is celebrating. Bring your friends to Chez Rovere and let them celebrate too.

Chez Rovere is open all day and not only can the casual diner partake of lunch, but there is a bar where cocktails or other drinks may be obtained at all times. Drop in and enjoy the atmosphere of old France, it will be a pleasant change from the usual uninteresting bar. Wines are of the best obtainable and daintily served.

"D.D.'s" is renowned for the excellence of its Russian cuisine, all the typical Moscovite dishes being served here with strict adherence to the famous recipes of imperial chefs. Music by a talented four-piece string orchestra is another attraction which draws the crowd, so that it is well to come early to secure a table. "Don't forget 'D.D.'s" is coming to be the social slogan.

The Paramount Appeal

The Paramount Ballroom with its suave elegance and artistic appointments can make one forget such rude sounds as guns and bombs and imagine one's self in the old carefree Shanghai. This luxurious night club is more delightful than ever, its devotees declare, and brings back the atmosphere of gaiety and mirth which has made Shanghai famous the world around.

"Night life before eleven-thirty?" the cynic may query. Most assuredly. Come early enough to enjoy the delicious dinner which is offered here in irreproachable style, menus to suit every taste. The drinks are high class, too, standard brands served correctly. Light refreshments of every variety may also be obtained.

The popularity of this exclusive resort is shown in the fact that tables are taken early and there are always clients on the balcony as well. Gloria Andico's orchestra plays with an irresistible swing and a cadence and there are some bewitching hostesses who make perfect partners' not to mention the Astor Trio, acrobatic danseuses. Tribute must also be paid to the general manager, Mr. A. V. Martin, who has hosts of friends. The Paramount certainly lives up to its name.

Casanova's Lure

It may have been all for the best, although of course one hopes it will never happen again, this brief closing of the night clubs, for now that they are open again one realizes how indispensable they are. This seems to be particularly true in the case of Casanova, the toast of the town and a perennial favourite with all Shanghai's gay dogs.

Everybody knows this blithe rendezvous in 545-7 Avenue Edward VII, everybody who knows his way around Shanghai at night, but as the male population of Shanghai has been increased enormously lately one must call attention to this popular night club, where Arevallo's orchestra furnishes the best of dance measures and lovely ladies take pity on lonesome men and dance with them. First class drinks, of course, and good food.

The Renaissance

The Renaissance, said to be the oldest Russian restaurant here, will open the winter season of its new dance hall in surroundings which have been re-decorated in very effective fashion in the Renaissance vogue. A ladies' orchestra plays high grade classical selections and still puts in all the swing and rhythm that any one could wish when they play jazz. The cozy American Bar has some charming hostesses who are said to mix some perfectly blended cocktails. For a jolly evening one could hardly do better than visit this colourful resort.

The Yangtsze Ballroom

East meets West very happily on the dance floor of the Yangtsze Ballroom not only as the men of the Occident enjoy the exotic charm of their Oriental dancing partners, who are as graceful as they are beautiful, but also in the way in which the latest dance music of the West is contrasted with some of the rhythms of the Far East.

Another interesting feature is that one may find eastern or western refreshments as one prefers. The pretty dancing partners generally sip their glasses of tea demurely, although sometimes one will be seen trying a western beverage, but the guests may have any drink they desire, secure in the realization that it will be "honest liquor."

The dinners served at the Yangtsze Ballroom are excellent and the prices reasonable, too. The dance floor has a real spring and the orchestra tempts anyone to step out on the floor with one of the attractive hostesses.

Conveniently located near the Race Course, at the corner of Yunnan and Hankow Roads, this is very popular with the men in uniform who are given a cordial welcome here. Men who want to spend an enjoyable evening which is characteristic of Shanghai, a happy blend of both continents, will be delighted with the Yangtsze Ballroom.

British Bakeries

Do you know the British Bakeries in 1266 Bubbling Well Road? You've missed it if you haven't, because they have all manner of good things to eat, yes, and drink, and their cozy tea-room and restaurant is a very delightful place in which to spend a cheery hour or so.

All manner of delicacies for home consumption are here and some which are not found everywhere, as, for example, Scotch Haggis. All the makings of a very superior high tea are here, delicious scones, cakes and crusty brown cottage loaves. The pork pies and mutton pies are renowned and the chocolates are delicious. If one doesn't care for tea or coffee and such beverages one may be served with beer so that everybody can be happy.

The Little Club

It has been demonstrated that Shanghai cannot exist without a Little Club. True, it comes and it goes, it disappears at times, but it always reappears and this time its new form has met with such approval that it would seem certain to flourish. Attractive international dancing partners who are versed in the mazy intricacies of the modern dance add charm to the place and give that feminine grace which Shanghai lacks at present. The music is the latest swing, the drinks and refreshments not only good but reasonably priced, so what more could one ask?

The

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

PROSPECTS OF MEDIATION

The British Government's readiness to give its good offices in assisting in the composure of Sino-Japanese differences seems to be twofold. Viscount Cranborne's statement at Geneva suggests the possibility of a conference of nations who, whether members of the League or not, are vitally concerned in Far Eastern peace. It recalls Mr. S. M. Bruce's earlier proposal for a conference of Pacific powers, but it does not, apparently, endorse the belief that the time is ripe for action on those lines. Lord Cranborne's emphasis on the need for confining peacemaking efforts to measures which have a real chance of success is important. Experience shows that elaborate plans for that kind of international movement are best deferred unless they can result in proposals which both contestants are likely to accept. At the moment no such hope can be entertained. The senselessness of the struggle is, however, brought again to attention by the British representative's significant comparison of the intrinsic importance of the Marco Polo Bridge incident with the large-scale military and naval aggression launched by Japan against China. That fundamental point must be borne in mind. It is vividly impressed on the sympathies of other nations, if only by reason of the heavy losses which, as third parties, they have incurred in the course of the struggle. Here in Shanghai there is no difficulty in appreciating this point; the almost complete stagnation of the commercial life of this nerve centre is a serious matter for all. It reflects conditions, in greater or less degree, in other parts of the country, where hostilities are in progress. The offer of Great Britain to mediate "if the need should arise" is the second, perhaps, the more practical proposal put forward by the British Cabinet. It gives a further reason for the firm refusal to countenance or approve the suggested boycott of Japanese goods.

If mediation is to be acceptable to both parties—an essential condition precedent—the mediator cannot be identified with a concrete act of hostility to either one of them. Apart from that axiomatic truth, Great Britain has never been enamoured of the boycott weapon. In the form of economic sanctions it was officially adopted in the recent efforts of the League to bring pressure to bear on Italy. It was a dismal failure. Yet British objections to it are based on longer and wider experience. Enforcement of a boycott invariably involves the use of methods which lead to violence. Whatever may be the moral purpose originally inspiring it, it becomes rapidly exploited by trade interests which cannot help giving it a predominantly selfish motive. There is nothing so nauseating as the spectacle of a country stimulating the sale of its products in the name of morality. Practically too there is a grave objection to any measure which artificially interrupts the normal flow of trade. Sooner or later there has to be a restoration of the currents and the process is seldom impressive, involving as it frequently does a virtual repudiation of principles previously affirmed. Finally, as with economic sanctions, the danger of intensifying rather than eliminating the risks of war is always present. So it is not surprising that, despite certain demonstrations of public opinion, the British Government is not disposed to encourage the Archbishop of Canterbury to prescribe an economic antitoxin for Japan's malady. Japan has maintained that her main difficulty with China is economic, it is true. That is the one comprehensible item in her list of alleged grievances. It can be met, not as she is now trying to meet it, by spreading destruction far and wide, but by a real approach to equal partnership on lines acceptable to both countries. That is where British mediation might be effective if it could be accepted—a condition which has yet to be established. Although the world's condemnation of the policy of indiscriminate bombing is natural and salutary, it might develop into an obstacle to peace, and, consequently, defeat the objects of its amiable supporters. If it is allowed to get out of control it will certainly stiffen the obduracy of Japan, just as Japan's reckless use of the aeroplane has undoubtedly stimulated Chinese resistance and gravely complicated the task of reconciliation—a state of relationships which the two countries will ultimately have to accept. So long as the present state of war exists Chinese spokesmen are bound to exploit to the full the sympathies which must be aroused by the grim holocausts in so many of their cities. Yet third parties, while in no way surrendering their humanitarian principles, should recognize that the basic issue is to be found in the development of modern weapons of war and the vastly extended conceptions of conflict generated by their potentialities. It is exceedingly difficult to draw the exact line between what is and what is not a military objective. When, on the top of this difficulty, the disparity between man's power of invention and his ability to control what he has invented comes into play, the danger of allowing well-intentioned emotions to get the upper hand of national judgment will be readily perceived. This does not rebut the plain fact that China is the victim of unjustifiable aggression and consequently the appropriate recipient of sympathy and encouragement. It does not preclude whole-hearted condemnation of those indiscriminate bombings which, despite the unequivocal assertions of Japanese apologists, have undoubtedly marred the record of the invaders. It is merely concerned to show that if mediation is to have any chance of success at this stage, the mediator-designate cannot afford to be heavily committed to an attitude which any claim to might be taken to prejudge the issue.

It is unfortunate that Japan has, so far, shown a great lack of appreciation of the depth of feeling aroused by her naval and military assaults on the world's sense of fairplay and on accepted notions of humane conduct. When, no doubt with considerable colour of truth, she calls attention to the "unilateral" verdict of Geneva—an epithet earned by her own default—and when she discerns nothing but Chinese "propaganda" in the causes of the indignation in America and Europe, she is making it very hard for the influences of mediation to have their proper scope. Surely Japanese civilians who are able to sense the feelings of their friends with greater accuracy than soldiers or sailors absorbed in the task of "bringing China to her knees," can move their Government to apprehension of this danger to their country's reputation. They at least cannot lose sight of what Lord Cranborne calls the need for establishing friendly relations between China and Japan. They must realize that when the spokesman at Tokyo stubbornly asserts that this war is no concern of anyone except the two combatants he is ignoring the grim realities of the position of third parties here. He is working on an untenable theory. Meanwhile this devastating and cruel havoc proceeds. Critical, strongly critical though British opinion may be of the policy which has led Japan to intensify her aggressive role in China, Great Britain still maintains her right to be regarded as the friend of both parties. Her friendship is not without weight. It would be an immense achievement if by some means or other the tentative offer of mediation could at least be considered in Tokyo as well as in Nanking. Is Far Eastern statesmanship so supine that it must fold its hands and placidly watch two enemies who should be friends slowly destroying themselves before its eyes and, in the process, damaging the prosperity of unwilling but impotent accessories to the crime?

CHUNG SAN HOSPITAL

The misapprehension which led to the belief that the Chung San Hospital was not being used is courteously corrected by Dr. C. H. Chou. His correction is all the more welcome for he supplies interesting details of the important part which the Hospital is actually playing in grappling with the problem of medical organization at this time. As an emergency hospital for cholera cases the institution is receiving patients from all three municipal areas. This is a point to be firmly emphasized, for the arrangement which Dr. Chou has been able to make in cooperation with the three health authorities has indirectly facilitated the treatment of wounded soldiers, in that the acceptance of cholera patients exclusively in the Chung Sun Hospital for the time being has obviously set free accommodation elsewhere in the Settlement and French Concession up to the limits agreed upon with the military authorities. The work which the hospital is doing makes it necessary for its administration to draw attention to its financial needs. It is understood that more funds are required. Here then is one definite object on which charitable energy might be concentrated. For the rest Dr. Chou confirms this journal's opinion that medical men, both foreign and Chinese, are manfully struggling with a most difficult situation which would be immeasurably relieved if the affluent residents of Shanghai really put their hands in their pockets and took to heart Dr. Chou's admirable contention that "both government and the people should do their utmost in providing for the necessary care of the wounded soldiers who are fighting for our security and freedom." The arrival in Shanghai of the delegate from the International Red Cross at Geneva, M. de Watteville, who is proceeding to Nanking, will no doubt stimulate activities in this regard. In the meantime it is fitting to recognize the practical solicitude shown by Dr. Chou and his colleagues. May they soon find that they have behind them such resources as will give them full scope for their professional skill. An interesting suggestion is made by a foreign surgeon who points out that the urgent need for Chinese doctors in the field hospitals in Chinese territory near Shanghai could be met if an appeal were made for foreign doctors to take over the duties of looking after the wounded Chinese soldiers in the International Settlement and French Concession. The suggestion from its source seems to be based on accurate knowledge of the readiness of the foreigners to fill the breach and therefore it deserves special consideration. Its adoption should certainly reduce the shortage of trained medical men in hospitals where they are greatly in demand.

OLDEST DAILY PASSES

The British Empire's oldest daily newspaper has passed on by merger with the "Daily Telegraph," as it was feared would happen when it was announced in August that Lord Camrose had bought the "Morning Post." The name is to be kept alive apparently just as the "News-Chronicle's" name recalls the separate identity of two great Liberal popular newspapers. Thus a career which began on November 2, 1772 has ended on September 30, 1937. Two years ago the "Morning Post" lost Lord Apsley, whose resignation terminated a family association with the journal of exactly 100 years' duration, for his mother, Countess Bathurst, is the granddaughter of Peter Borthwick, M. P. for Evesham, who bought the paper from Crompton in 1835. Another link is now broken by the disappearance from an editorial chair of Mr. H. A. Gwynne who, after one of the most brilliant careers as a special correspondent in Reuter's service went to the "Standard" in 1904 and thence to the "Morning Post" in 1911. Mr. Gwynne carried the banner of tariff reform to the "Standard"; he maintained the bulwarks of independent toryism in the "Morning Post." He commands the greatest esteem from his profession and his distinction of being the last editor of two once great morning newspapers bears testimony at least to consistency as the champion of right-wing pertinacity. At seventy-one years of age he has earned the right to a happy leisure in retirement as will be the wish for him of all his colleagues in Fleet Street. China knew him long ago in 1898 when, for nearly a year and a half, he was Reuter's correspondent in Peking.

TRANSFORMATION

Shanghailanders whose peregrinations take them within the area where the defence of the perimeter of the Settlement is conducted cannot resist the feeling that they are in some strange, untidy, battered region totally unlike that which the names on the street signboards indicate. The Bund or Nanking Road looks quaint enough with its sandbags, boarded windows and barbed wire. The perimeter area is far more thoroughly transformed. It fronts a scene of shattered buildings. To the accompaniment of frequent machine-gun sputtering, overhead whirring and thunderclaps which throw up sinister clouds of smoke, the sandbagged watchers live their daily lives. Across the way now and then are perceived active figures who are understood to be engaged in the current hostilities. Meanwhile what are left of the civilian population can be discerned in alley ways, some carrying on their occupations with philosophical calmness. Perhaps in some courtyard which is less in the danger zone—the comparative is not of great value—a British soldier off duty will be playing with Chinese children whose readiness to accept the desolation around as specially designed for their entertainment is not the least astonishing development of a bizarre fantasy. The truth is that urban zones are not adapted to fighting and thus a considerable unreality pervades the whole scene—to be mercilessly interrupted now and then by prolonged spasms of destructive effort.

JAPAN AND THE WAR

For October, "Oriental Affairs" in addition to continuing the illustrated record of the military operations round Shanghai—its photographs are exceptionally good—resumes publication of its letters from correspondents in other parts. Mr. W. V. Pennell contributes a detailed survey of the military operations in the North and brings them up to the period just before the Japanese offensive which resulted in the capture of Paoting. In his letter from Tokyo Mr. H. V. Redman, whose competence in assessing Japanese affairs is recognized, definitely discounts the view that there is expectation of intervention in the present hostilities by Soviet Russia. Speaking of the attitude of the people in Japan of events in China Mr. Redman observes:

> "....the man in the street here is not thinking of the situation in terms of diplomacy, but simply in terms of war. He seems reconciled nowadays to a long-term business. Indeed, all the ministerial statements during the Extraordinary Diet Session which lasted from September 4 to 8 prepared him for this. He does not seem particularly to like it, but at the same time it makes no difference to his determination. The authorities seem latterly to have come to the conclusion that their efforts to intensify the national spirit are for the most part unnecessary, and have had the effect of producing the sort of excitement which is too intense to last, or to be applied constantly in one direction. The departure of reservists to the colours and of troops to the front were for some weeks made the occasion for cheering bands of enthusiasts to drive round the streets in lorries, bands of which the composition was roughly one service man in twenty-five. In addition to the near relatives and friends of the called men, these cheer-parties were composed of members of reservists associations and young men's leagues acting under orders from authority. The effect of these activities was to keep the capital in a high pitch of excitement at all hours of the day and to give to the casual spectator the impression that thousands upon thousands of people were being called up."

"Oriental Affairs" concludes with full texts of the Chinese and Japanese versions of the Shanghai hostilities.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF OCTOBER 2, 1877

The Turkish Envoy to Cabul reached Peshawur on August 22. The ruler of Jelalabad was waiting to receive him at Jamrud. The Ameer of Cabul has sent a guard of 100 men to Ali Musjid to escort the Envoy to Cabul, where it is expected he will accord a gracious reception to the Embassy. Two of the Envoy's suite have gone to the Akhoond of Swat on a special mission, with presents from the Sultan.

Volunteers are notified, that class-firing will be resumed on the 5th instant, and will continue for about three weeks. The days on which the different classes are to shoot are specified, together with the conditions; and it is to be hoped that there will be an improvement on the Spring shooting, and more zest shown in the proceedings generally. It will be interesting to look forward to the number of marksmen the Corps can produce; and these are to be entitled, like volunteers at home, to wear the "marksman's badge" a rifle and two stars on the left arm—for one year. The Autumn Prize Meeting is to be held from November 9—13.

HAICHOW AMERICANS EVACUATE

Destroyer Transports to Tsingtao: Under Fire from Japanese and Chinese Forces

BY AN EYE-WITNESS

Haichow, Ku., Sept. 19.

September 19 was set as the day on which Americans from North Kiangsu were to be evacuated through the New Harbour at Haichow. Both the Chinese and Japanese Governments had been notified of the date and both had agreed to facilitate the evacuation in any way they could. The Pope, American destroyer, came over from Tsingtao during the night and anchored about three miles from the Lienyun wharf early on the day in question.

In the meantime, about 5.30 a.m., a party of three American missionaries left the City of Haichow by motor-car for Lienyun, the harbour, about 30 miles from the city. Just before reaching Hsukow, five miles from the harbour, Japanese aeroplanes were seen almost overhead, and anti-aircraft firing began from several directions. Remembering H.M. Ambassador's experience and also realizing that what goes up must come down, the three Americans stopped the car and took shelter in a grove of trees, trying to avoid both direct fire from the planes and the falling fragments from anti-aircraft shells. No damage was done to the car nor to the missionaries, except for the shock.

Evacuation Delayed

The journey was continued to Lienyun and immediately steps were taken to have a wharf tug to go out and meet the destroyer, which was in plain sight. Three times the preparations were delayed by air-raid alarms. Two planes at a time would fly over and the Chinese anti-aircraft batteries would fire at them. While the tug was being delayed in starting, two small gigs from the destroyer left ship with the purpose of bringing Dr. Reed ashore so that he could make a trip to his hospital in Haichow. The Pope meanwhile was waiting for a party of evacuees who were due on the Lunghai Express. The two gigs had no sooner approached the island which is just outside the Lienyun Harbour than rifles began to crack, and it was soon apparent that the fire was being directed perilously close to the two small boats. When the captain of the destroyer, who was on one of the gigs, noticed that a rangefinder on the island was directing the fire and that the shots which had come closer suddenly were directed over the gigs, he ordered the boats to return to the Pope. The firing then ceased.

Later, the commander of the garrison at Lienyun sent a letter of apology to the captain on the Pope, explaining that the isolated sentries on the island had not fully understood the situation and that they had fired with no other intention except to stop the small boats from coming on any farther. The plan was for the tug to go out to the destroyer, and not for small boats to come over from the ship. It is easy to understand that the sentry would have been unwilling to take a chance, specially when Japanese aeroplanes were flying over at intervals for some hours, and it was known that Japanese warships were not far away.

Mission of Mercy

At last the tug brought Dr. Reed to the wharf, whence he made the journey to Haichow by car. After arrangements had been made and all was ready for the trip back to Lienyun, while a group of Chinese leaders and two American missionaries were having a prayer meeting on the McLauchlin front porch, things began to hum. Twelve Japanese aeroplanes were sighted coming over the City and later twelve more appeared. For some days Japanese planes had been coming over Haichow almost daily, usually in pairs, and ordinarily flying over only once or twice and then disappearing in the distance. This time the planes zoomed back and forth for about an hour. Machine-gun fire was incessant, but it was not easy to tell whether it was partly from the planes and partly from the Chinese batteries, or entirely from the land batteries, but when the bombs exploded there was no mistaking the work of the planes.

Where other bombs may have exploded there were plenty of rumours, one being that a bomb struck one of the bridges across the Haichow River on the motor road to Chingkow, but as this is being limited to "eye-witness" accounts, only three hits can be mentioned. Two bombs made large holes in the soft ground in front of the military camp for artillery units which are protecting the Haichow airfield. These bombs struck just a few yards from the road which had been traversed, just a short while before, by American citizens who were going to and from the harbour, and just a very short while after the explosion this same road was travelled by two Americans on their way to the port for embarkation. Another bomb apparently knocked to smithereens a small house near the gate of this same military camp. So far as could be seen these three bombs accomplished nothing of military value.

Anxious Moments

A party of American missionaries who were coming from Tsingkiangpu by way of Yuinho and the Lunghai Railway, were held up at Peitapu a small station about fifteen miles west of Haichow and about 45 miles from Lienyun, because of the raids of the Japanese planes. This group spent several anxious hours on their stationary train while the raiding planes flew over them going back and forth from Haichow to Hsuchowfu or wherever they went they seemed to be heading for Hsuchowfu. Another party of Americans was held up at the Haichow railway station, for the same reason. The station-master there insisted that they go down in a dugout to stay till the raid was over. Finally both groups and those going by car from Haichow reached Lienyun in safety, but not without having had some hair-raising experiences.

Such a situation as has just been recounted is very difficult to understand in view of the fact that the Japanese Government knew the definite date for this evacuation and promised full co-operation in carrying it out. In Haichow, some time before this, Tokyo was heard broadcasting the word that they had agreed to facilitate the evacuation of Americans through the port of Haichow September 19. Strange that they should have taken that day to imperil the lives of those who were being evacuated.

Courtesy Without Stint

The Lienyun port authorities showed every courtesy and gave their assistance without stint to facilitate the transfer of the evacuees from the wharf to the Pope. Their tug took the party over to the ship, and all were safely on board by about dark. The American group consisted of the Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Graham, Sen, Miss Sophie Graham, Mrs. Emma B. Rice, Miss Esther Rice, Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Bell, the Misses Ruth and Virginia Bell and Master Clayton Bell, the Rev. A. R. Craig, Dr. N. G. Patterson, Dr. J. H. Reed, Jun., Miss Lina Bradley, and Rev. W. C. McLauchlin, all of the North Kiangsu Mission of the Southern Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Gaffin, Miss Margaret Gaffin, and Master Richard Gaffin, Jun., of the Presbyterian Church of America.

Cmdr. Patterson, in command of the destroyer squadron, and Cmdr. de Weese and other officers showed every courtesy to their guests on the ship, giving up their sleeping quarters and inconvenienced themselves in order to make the evacuees comfortable. The Pope made the trip across from Lienyun to Tsingtao in quick time, at the rate of 25 knots. Several times Japanese warships signalled, asking the name of the destroyer, but there was no untoward incident to mar the trip after getting on the destroyer. Thanks are due to Gen. Whang, commanding the Haichow District, for being willing to open the port at Lienyun for the evacuation of American citizens, though he knew Japanese men-of-war were very near.

PROTECTION AGAINST AIR RAIDS

Dugouts, However, Considered Inadequate

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Sutsien, Ku., Sept. 17.

A new feature has appeared in Sutsien, something entirely unique in the history of this inland city. Pits and holes of various sorts are being dug all over town. Most of them are very small, and pitifully inadequate as a protection against aerial bombs, but some are fairly good, and a few appear quite serviceable. The best ones belong to public establishments. The one at the magistrate's yamen is large and strong. The plan is that, if necessary, the magistrate and his staff can live in this dugout and transact public business there. Some persons, who are fortunate enough to live near the dyke of the old Yellow River bed, are making tunnels into it, thus securing rather good protection at a reasonable cost.

An inexperienced observer reports that a good many of these shelters will be effective against flying fragments. A large bomb, making a direct hit, would probably smash any of them; but of course the chances of such a hit are very slight. Moreover, it does not seem likely that even a Japanese would drop the largest bombs in a place like Sutsien.

When there is a warning of approaching planes, very strict precautions are observed. People must not walk on the streets. The magistrate says that if any one is seen flashing light upward from an electric torch, during a time of warning at night, he will be shot, as a traitor.

Selective Conscriptionr

A sort of selective conscription is now being enforced here. All boys who have reached military age are subject to call, if needed, but many of them fail to pass the medical examination. In neighbouring districts, it is reported that young men are being taken by force and put into training camps, but no such procedure has been observed here. Many boys have entered school in order to avoid the draft.

It is practically impossible to have goods sent in from Shanghai or any other port city, so the merchants must sooner or later find their shelves empty of imported goods. Of course such a state of affairs will call for a readjustment of many of the processes of daily life. No doubt the Chinese can meet such emergencies better than the more highly organized industrial nations could. The people can grind grain and prepare their own foodstuffs, spin thread and weave cloth. It is probable that most of the actual necessities of life can be supplied locally. However, the lack of imported medicines will prove a very serious matter. For instance, this district is in the midst of the Kala Azar belt, and the supplies of medicine for this disease will soon be exhausted, leaving large numbers of people to suffer and die from the ravages of this dread scourage.

Because the war has interrupted transportation, wheat is not being shipped from Sutsien and consequently, the price has eased off a bit. Local flour is now selling at 9 cents per catty.

DECREE FOR WIFE OF EXPLORER

Mr. Justice Langton, in the Divorce Court granted a decree nisi with costs to Mrs. Florinda Kingdon Ward, of Cleve Court, Streatley-on-Thames, Berks, against Capt. Francis Kingdon Ward, the explorer, who did not defend the suit. Mrs. Ward, who was married in 1923, was granted custody of the two children.

Her case was that Mr. Ward was constantly away on expeditions, and at present he was somewhere in China. They had drifted apart since 1928. Last December her husband lost his note-case, in which was a letter signed "Irene," written in affectionate terms.

Evidence was given in support of the allegation of Mr. Ward's adultery at an hotel in Woolhampton, Berks.

Spalding, where the cattle market has been held in the public streets for generations, is to have a new market on a convenient site near the centre of the town and railways station, at a cost of £25,000, the Ministry of Agriculture having just given their consent to the scheme.

THE AUSTRALIAN ELECTIONS

All Parties Approve Rearmament: Epidemic Threat To Sydney Celebrations

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Melbourne, Aug. 28.

With the Federal elections tentatively fixed for the end of October the political parties are busily decorating their windows with attractive programmes. The Government, as was forecast some months ago, has selected a bigger and better policy of national defence as the motif of its publicity. As this involves the expansion of key industries and special encouragement to those industries that would be mobilized in time of war, the Government is able to claim that its policy is designed to create employment.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Lyons, finds the role of Santa Claus congenial, for he has been plucking benefits for all good voters from the tree of increasing prosperity for several years. The fact that others planted that tree, and that he may be unable to prevent it growing into an inflationary boom, "has nothing to do with the case." When times are good, and elections are coming, neither politician nor voter cares to think of things like that, and prodigal promises are the order of the day.

Equally conscious of the menace of mounting armaments abroad, the Labour Party has also pledged itself to as ambitious a defence policy as the country can support. This is a distinct departure from the attitude of the last Labour Government, which abolished compulsory military training, and reduced all the services to skeleton strength. To avoid the embarrassment, however, of agreeing entirely with the Government the Labour Party has denounced recent expenditure on the navy, and advocates the allocation of the greater part of the defence vote to the expansion of the air force.

Defence Estimates Higher

This political dabbling with questions of high strategy can not be accepted at face value. Labour is just as determined as the Lyons Government to defend Australia from foreign interference, and is now quite as disillusioned about the Geneva brand of collective security. This year the defence estimates were higher than ever before in peace time, and, whatever the result of the elections, defence expenditure next year is almost certain to be increased.

On other important issues the parties are also finding it difficult to disagree. The Government is no longer strong enough to tackle any unpopular issues, no matter how necessary that may be, and the Opposition is not likely to prejudice its fair prospects of success by threatening to do so. National insurance, revision of the tariff policy based on the Ottawa Agreements and reform of the banking system on the lines suggested by the Royal Commission are consequently being discussed in terms of the utmost circumspection, while party leaders criticize each other in a vague, half-hearted way. In fact the elections promise to be the least satisfactory for years, settling nothing, and leaving the new Government without any real mandate or responsibility at all.

Melbourne's Troubles

Melbourne has been having rather a bad time. The epidemic of infantile paralysis has steadily gained ground in the last month, and a gas strike is causing considerable inconvenience to the public in the metropolitan area.

The inability of the medical profession to provide any preventive treatment, by inoculation or other familiar devices, has aggravated public alarm to an extent unwarranted by the actual danger of infection. Efforts to segregate contacts by closing schools in the area at first affected failed to check the spread of the disease, and cases were reported in new districts every few days.

Health authorities are inclined to deprecate this tendency to magnify the problem. While admitting that little is known about the disease, though it has been known in an endemic form for years, they claim that it will gradually run its course, and die out as a natural immunity develops.

The major cause of concern is that the epidemic may have an adverse effect on Sydney's Sesquicentenary Celebrations next year, for which elaborate arrangements are being made. The celebrations, which mark the 150th anniversary of the first settlement in Australia, will continue throughout the year, and are designed to attract tourists from all parts of the world.

Strikers Sit Down

Strikes are no novelty in Australia, but the "sit down" variety is quite a recent importation. Workers in the gas companies which supply the city and certain of the suburbs of Melbourne are pioneering the fashion in Victoria. Dissatisfied with an Arbitration Court award, 700 workmen downed tools and took up permanent residence in the companies' premises. Broadcast music, dancing and games help to pass the time, and friends and relatives are invited to visit them on Sunday afternoons. It is all very orderly and sociable, but exasperating to the rest of the community.

NARCOTICS PURGE IN MANCHOUKUO

Rigid Measures Taken to Eliminate Indulgence

CINEMA MONOPOLY ESTABLISHED

Dairen, Sept. 21.

In language delicately disguised but none the less unmistakable, Premier Chang of the Changchun régime has made it clear in a manifesto that he intended to head a drive which would purge the country of its opium and narcotic habits. In this the Departments of Peace Preservation, Industry and Public Welfare and the monopoly bureaux, both central and local are to be mustered to do away with this dread practice.

The Manchoukuo Premier says that it is evident that the passing of laws is not sufficient to halt this evil habit, and so he trustingly calls upon the people to stop of their own volition. "Opium and narcotics," he says, "are not only suicidal to individuals but also menace the existence of the State. Where opium and narcotics are used there are also thieves and outlaws, which makes the preservation of peace and order a matter of extreme difficulty.

"When this Government was formed it intended completely to suppress this dangerous habit and various laws and systems have been introduced but the practice appears to be so deep-rooted that it has been brought home to the Government that a more effective and thorough-going manner is needed to efface this evil.

"It is with this in mind that the Government has decided to take more rigid measures to eliminate this awful practice and I hereby appeal to all not to fall victim to the habit of taking opium or narcotics," he concluded.

Gen. Kenkichi Ueda, Commander of the Kwantung Army and Japanese Ambassador to Changchun, issued a statement on the same day announcing the readiness and willingness of all Japanese officials in Manchoukuo to assist and support the campaign for abolishing opium and narcotics throughout the country. The statement is interesting in that it sounds a warning note against illicit traffic in drugs by the Japanese and it goes as far as to say that severe punishment will be meted out to all those found infringing the opium law.

Monopoly Established

The Opium Monopoly Bureau was formed on November 3, 1932 and the opium law was promulgated on November 30, 1932. The idea of the law was to check opium traffic and opium use gradually by means of a rationing system which has been carried out more or less successfully in Formosa and the Kwantung Leased Territory. The motive was not intended to increase State revenue.

Under the monopoly system in Manchoukuo the Government determines the quantity needed annually and then authorizes certain districts to cultivate poppies and manufacture opium. The place most utilized for opium growing is Jehol Province. Opium cultivation except where expressly ordered is absolutely forbidden. The opium manufactured is purchased by the Government at a set range of prices, according to grade. Last year the price was one Y.50 per liang.

The opium is distributed to authorized dealers in ten leading cities of the country. These are wholesalers and they, in their turn pass it over to about 1,200 authorized retail dealers. The police examine addicts and where they consider it necessary issue certificates to allow of opium use on account of health. At the end of 1934 certificated opium users numbered over 99,000. It is to these only that retail opium dealers can sell at a fixed price.

Increase in Revenue

For the first two years after the Changchun régime came into existence, it was found extremely difficult to enforce the law though after that it became easier. Strange as it may seem, nevertheless, revenue rose year after year. Thus the profit which was estimated at Y.5,000,000 for the first year and Y.9,828,000 for the second, had gone up to no less than Y.13,234,000 in the 1936 budget.

It was found some time ago, however, that the use of narcotics was gradually reaching alarming proportions and thus the narcotics law was announced. It is believed that former opium takers, unable to get a supply, had turned to narcotics to relieve their craving.

Under this law the manufacture of narcotics is prohibited unless under governmental licence. No sales can be made unless authorized, prescribed by physicians or used for research, while various fines up to Y.7,000 are to be levied upon those who contravene the law.

It will be interesting to see whether there is some other palliative to fall back upon when opium and narcotics are banned.

Cinema Association Formed

What has long been expected in this country, which is an institution for the State control of the cinema industry, has at last been announced as the Manchuria Cinema Association. Negotiations for the formation were proceeding for some time between Manchoukuo and Japan and the head office will open in Changchun soon.

The new concern is to be capitalized at Y.5,000,000 and it will be invested in by the Manchoukuo Government and the South Manchuria Railway Company.

The association's intentions are to produce its own pictures, import and export other films and give education to the masses, through the movie medium, of the spirit which underlies the formation of Manchoukuo.

At the time of this announcement Manchoukuo only was affected, meaning that the Kwantung Leased Territory would still be possible of penetration for foreign cinema companies but in every monopoly which Manchoukuo has yet introduced the Kwantung District government has followed suit so that proper collaboration between the two could be carried on.

This in turn means that the day of the foreign cinema companies both in Manchoukuo and the Kwantung Leased Territory is nearing the end, which at the same time does not mean that there will be no more foreign pictures in Manchoukuo, but simply that if they are imported it is the Manchuria Cinema Association which will make whatever profit there is to be obtained from them.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, Sept. 30.

In the absence of further large scale liquidation, sentiment on the stock exchange to-day improved, but business was meagre in view of the approaching end of account. Paris supported specialized Kaffirs, while base metal issues were undecided.—Reuter.

LONDON SILVER MARKET REPORT

London, Sept. 30.

Messrs. Mocatta and Goldsmid, in their weekly bullion letter, write:—Conditions in the London silver market during the past week remained unchanged. Prices remained almost stationary. Indian sales continued to be in evidence, while America has been a buyer at or just below this level.

Stocks of silver in London at the end of the week amounted to 6,000,000 ounces.—Reuter.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Sept. 30.

Stock prices in Wall Street to-day closed irregular, with moves of about 1 point either way, on profit-taking and some selling attributed to Washington reports suggesting that President Roosevelt on his return from the West will consider a special session of Congress. Coppers were bought on expectations of favourable third quarter statements, while motors were heavy due to the possibility that buyers may show resistance to car price advances. The turn-over to-day amounted to 1,050,000 shares.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S FINANCIAL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

First Half Of Fiscal Year Reveals Sound Position

London, Oct. 1.

The prospects the Great Britain's financial year, the first half of which ended last night, appear bright. Treasury returns for the first six months show a total ordinary revenue of £308,861,000, an increase of £16,706,000 over the same period last year.

Ordinary expenditure totalled £407,397,000 compared with £372,548,000, but during this period of the year expenditure always considerably exceeds income.

The Army, Navy and Air Force vote totalled £104,600,000 compared with £78,650,000, while floating debt outstanding amounted to £907,504 compared with £863,455.—Reuter.

BANK OF FRANCE RETURNS

Paris, Sept. 30.

Gold reserves totalling 55,805,000,000 francs were shown in the returns issued to-day by the Bank of France for the week ended September 23, showing no change compared with the previous week's figure. The total note circulation was given as 88,645,000,000 francs, a decrease of 195,000,000 francs compared with last week.—Reuter.

U.S. COMMODITIES

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Sept. 30.

The cotton market early eased on lower Liverpool cables, favourable weather reports, a tendency to revise crop ideas upwards, further hedging and selling credited to the Far East, with Liverpool reported to be on both sides of the market. Finally, the market closed steady with quotations ranging from 4 to 9 points down.

The rubber market to-day declined to new lows on the weakness of London advices, coupled with reports of Far Eastern pressure and commission house liquidation. Factory buying at the decline was a steadying influence. At the last call-over losses of 16 to 20 points were recorded.

Wheat prices in Chicago early responded to the strength of cables, liberal exports of hard Winter wheat to Europe and increasing complaints that needed rainfall is absent in Australia. Towards the close prices reacted on realizing and the easiness of Winnipeg. At the final bell, losses of ⅜ to a ½ cent were registered.

The sugar market advanced on producers buying and covering, owing to steady London cables and the absence of selling pressure. Closing quotations were 1 point up.

The silk market early declined on overnight commission house selling in the face of steadier unexpected cables. Latterly the market advanced on covering by the trade and shorts, and some new buying was a steadying influence. Finally, prices closed firm on more aggressive covering. At the close quotations were 1 cent up. —Reuter.

JAPAN VETOES MEDIATION OFFER BY BRITAIN

Nation Determined to Fight Till China Changes Attitude: Communist Influence Blamed

PACIFIC CONFERENCE INOPPORTUNE

Territorial Ambitions Denied: All Nations Will Freely Share Future Era of Prosperity

Tokyo, Oct. 1.

JAPAN desires neither foreign mediation in her dispute with China nor the convocation of an international conference to deal with the controversy. She is determined to "fight to the bitter end, until China reconsiders her attitude and drastically alters her anti-Japanese policy." Japan does not desire to destroy China but merely wishes to eradicate those elements which are "disrupting peace" in open alliance with "the greatest element of world unrest—Communism."

These important pronouncements were made to-day by a spokesman of the Foreign Office, in an extensive review of Japan's policies in the current incident.

Japan, the official declared, wants neither to make China solely dependent on her nor to take any part of China's territory. All Japan desires is co-operation, resulting in a "new era of fruitful development and constructive prosperity which would benefit not only China and Japan but all other nations of the world as well, and will allow the nationals of all countries to pursue freely their business and occupations."

Lord Cranborne's Suggestion

Lord Cranborne, British delegate to the Committee of 23 of the League of Nations, the spokesman said, was reported as saying that the Sino-Japanese conflict was of serious concern to countries other than the two nations directly involved in it.

"Lord Cranborne," the official remarked, "was hinting, we suppose, at the necessity or the desirability of convening a conference of Powers deeply interested in the affairs of the Pacific area. "We desire to make it clear that we do not think mediation is called for at the present stage of the affair. We want also to say explicitly that we are determined to fight to the bitter end until China reconsiders her attitude and drastically alters her anti-Japanese policy. We shall, therefore, unswervingly and unflinchingly, although, as I stated before, with regret, pursue our established policy."

If any power wants to mediate in the Sino-Japanese dispute, the spokesman said, "it must first acquire a full appreciation of our aims and aspirations."

If any power desires to associate herself with the cause of China, "she is entirely welcome to do so—only let her beware of the mendacious propaganda of China."

Conference Inopportune

"We think," the official continued, "that the setting up of an international committee or the convocation of a conference of Pacific Powers to deal with the Sino-Japanese dispute is not opportune, to say the least, at the present juncture.

"If the proposed committee or conference were to show as complete a lack of appreciation of the realities of the actual situation, as manifested in recent denunciations of the Japanese air force by the Advisory Committee, we must say that all efforts at conciliation are bound to be futile.

"Such steps, taken on the basis of tendencious news, would but make more difficult a constructive and lasting settlement for which we all hope. Japan is not bent on destroying China but on doing away with the elements which are disrupting peace. They are to-day openly allied with the greatest element of world unrest, —Communism.

Constructive Co-operation

"Japan does not aim at making China solely dependent on Japan: she does not want her territory, but her co-operation, in order to bring about a new era of fruitful development and constructive prosperity, which would benefit not only China and Japan, but all nations of the world as well and will allow nationals of all countries to pursue freely their business and occupation."

The spokesman declared that the Chinese "seem, by their mendacious propaganda, to have attained a certain degree of success in fooling a part of public opinion.

"Although it is an indisputable fact that the Chinese precipitated the present hostilities, they are misleading foreigners to believe the contrary."

The Chinese, he added, "have systematically encouraged and exploited the anti-Japanese sentiment of the masses, working it up to a fever pitch, which was chiefly responsible for the outbreak of the conflict in the north as well as in the south.

Shanghai Provocations

"In Shanghai," he continued. "they murdered cold-bloodedly Japanese marines on regular duty on a Settlement road and, taking advantage of our conciliatory attitude, massed huge forces upon the borders of the Settlement.

Japanese Reply Fails to Offer Guarantee Asked

Responsibility for Damage Refused to U.S.

WASHINGTON REMAINS DISSATISFIED

Washington, Oct. 1.

The failure of Japan to give a specific guarantee against the bombing of Chinese non-combatants in her reply to the American protest on the subject has disappointed the State Department, although the Note as a whole has been received with no surprise.

Informed circles state that, at least in one respect, the reply can be hardly regarded as satisfactory, namely, the portion in which the Japanese express the hope that the United States will co-operate with the Japanese forces when the Japanese give notice requesting foreign nationals to seek safety elsewhere.

This is interpreted here as, in effect, asking the United States to consent to Japan's right to dictate the movements of United States diplomatists in China.

Disappointing to a lesser extent, but not particularly surprising, was the renewed refusal of the Japanese Government to acknowledge responsibility for damage to United States property caused by Japanese military operations.—Reuter.

Mr. Hull's Comment

Washington, Sept. 30.

Japan's Note was to-day characterized as adverse or unfavourable by the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, who declared that negotiations were likely to continue.

Mr. Hull said he would be unable to discuss the communications until he knew more about the Japanese suggestion that the United States "co-operate" in measures intended to protect foreigners in China.

Silence on Boycott Move

Questioned to-day regarding their attitude about the proposed British boycott of Japanese merchandize, State Department officials declined to comment or indicate their position saying merely that the question had not come up here.—United Press.

AMERICANS IN THE YANGTZE VALLEY

Admiral Issues Correction to Japanese Statement

In connection with Americans living in the Yangtze Valley, the Commander-inchief of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet, last night issued the following:

"The statement made in the local press of September 23 by the Japanese naval spokesman that 'the Japanese authorities were informed by Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, American Ambassador to China, early this month that evacuation of foreigners from Hankow and the surrounding areas would be completed by noon, September 26' is entirely in error as no such information was ever given out by the Ambassador.

"There were negotiations with the Japanese authorities to withhold bombing of the Canton-Hankow Railway until September 26 to permit three small parties of Americans to reach Canton in safety. Notice was given at the time, however, that there would be other parties to follow.

"There are in the Yangtze Valley several thousand foreigners, 1,000 of whom are Americans. Many of these people will wish to leave China in the course of time and it is imperative that a safe route to reach one of the seaports from the Yangtze Valley be agreed upon."

AUSTRALIAN UNIONS BOYCOTT JAPAN

Empire Urged to Follow Suit

Sydney, Sept. 30.

The Labour Council, governing body of the trade unions of New South Wales, has ordered a boycott on Japanese goods, and has called on all union members to prevent imports from or exports to Japan. The Council has also urged the British Trade Union Council to call an Empire-wide boycott.—Reuter.

China Seeking to Cite Japan as Aggressor

Geneva, Oct. 1.

A resolution citing Japan as aggressor against a member of the League of Nations was submitted to the International Advisory Committee of the League here to-day by Dr. Wellington Koo, acting on Article Ten of the League Covenant.—United Press.

Geneva, Oct. 1.

The Advisory Committee of 23 this morning is understood to have appointed a sub-committee of 12.—Reuter.

Tokyo Answers Strictures Of League Motion

Enemy Military Forces Sole Objectives

CITIES ARE FORTIFIED

Bombings to Continue If Necessary

Geneva, Sept. 30.

A statement regarding the League of Nations Assembly's condemnation of Japanese bombings, similar to that of the spokesman of the Foreign Office in Tokyo, was made by the Japanese spokesman here to-day. Japan, he said, was determined to destroy the military forces of her enemy, and air bombings would be continued, if necessary.

Expressing deep indignation at the "irresponsible manner" in which the Assembly had considered the matter, the spokesmen in Tokyo yesterday accused that body of passing sentence without assuring themselves of the accuracy of their evidence.

Nanking and Canton were not undefended cities, he asserted, but contained important military establishments and had been strongly fortified against aerial attack.

He denied that the Japanese Government had ever permitted indiscriminate bombing of non-combatants and declared the objectives of Japanese aircraft were entirely restricted to troop concentrations and military establishments.—Reuter.

Denial Issued in London

London, Oct. 1.

The Japanese air force in China has consistently made Chinese troops and military establishments their objectives of attack, says a statement issued by the Japanese Embassy in London.

"It is to be greatly regretted," it adds, "that many civilian casualties should have occurred. In view of these unfortunate incidents, the Japanese air force has again been strictly instructed to take every precaution to avoid the destruction of life and property of civilians."

The statement complains of "wildly exaggerated reports," for example, the report that 3,000 persons were killed in the air raid on Canton on September 23, and gives a list of the establishments which, it declares, were the objectives of the air attacks on Nanking, Canton and Hankow.

As Japanese submarines are strictly forbidden to attack merchantmen, junks, etc., the statement adds, and as no Japanese submarine is operating in the locality, it is absolutely impossible that any attack such as is alleged to have occurred near Hongkong on September 22 could ever have been made.—Reuter.

THE COW AND THE CANNON

Hannibal's Patent Infringed in Shanghai War

Emulating Hannibal in the Punic Wars, Japanese troops at the front have been using bovine strength in charging the Chinese lines, after their mechanical weapons had failed to shake the strong Chinese defence, said a Chinese report last night.

The difference between the tactics of the great Carthaginian general and his modern imitators, however, was that while Hannibal used elephants, the Japanese were forced to be content with some scores of milch cows which they had previously looted from Chinese farmhouses.

These dumb animals, it was reported, were driven toward the Chinese lines as cannon fodder to cover a half-hearted infantry attack launched by the Japanese yesterday evening against the Chinese positions at Liuhang and Kuochiache.

The bovine charge, however, ended in a complete fiasco. Not only were many of these beasts mowed down by Chinese machine-gun fire and five captured, but large numbers of Japanese troops were also killed and wounded when they approached, behind the cows.

BUMPER CROPS IN SZECHUEN

Contrast to Famine-Stricken Province in Spring

Chengtu, Oct. 1.

Instead of being a burden on the Central Government insofar as food supply is concerned, Szechuen, famine-stricken as recently as last spring, will not only be able to yield enough to feed its own populace but will have a surplus to replenish the nation's granaries this autumn.

With the exception of the northern parts of the province, where only an inferior harvest is to be expected because of the drought earlier this year, crops in eastern Szechuen will measure up to about 80 per cent. of the normal output while a 100 per cent. output has been forecast in western districts.—Central News.

"MORNING POST" CEASES PUBLICATION

London, Sept. 30.

The "Morning Post" will announce to-day that, from October 1, it will be amalgamated with the "Daily Telegraph" and that the combined paper will be published under the title of "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post." The new paper will be under the control of Lord Camrose, Editor-in-Chief of the "Daily Telegraph" and of the "Sunday Times." —Reuter.

Medical Relief Fund in Britain To Aid Chinese

Influential Group to Issue Appeal for Donations

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO GIVE £100,000

London, Oct. 1.

Reuter understands that an appeal, signed by many influential people, will be issued to-morrow by the China Association, the Conference of British Missionary Societies and the British Red Cross asking for contributions for the relief of distress and the sick and wounded, both civilians and soldiers, in China.

The appeal, which will be signed, among others, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of Westminster and the Lord Mayor, is a result of the letter to "the Times" of the well-known financier, Sir Abe Bailey, in which he offered to contribute £1,000 to start a fund for sending medical aid to China.

The Executive Committee of the League of Nations Union has decided to ask the Government to give at least £100,000 towards the expenses of the proposed League medical missions to China.

The Committee has also passed a resolution calling upon the British Government to press upon the League the necessity of declaring that China has been a victim of aggression and that it is the duty of all members of the League, among other measures, to refuse all imports from Japan, thus depriving her of the power of renewing the sinews of war, provided other countries outside the League do the same. The resolution also urges the Government to insist that the Assembly be not dispersed until effective action has been concerted.—Reuter.

CHINESE JUNKS TAKE JAPANESE CUTTER

Chinese Press Reports Feat Done Off Macao

Hongkong, Sept. 30.

Large Chinese fishing junks mounting light guns succeeded in capturing a Japanese naval launch which was despatched by a Japanese man-of-war to investigate the nature of the business of the junks, a Chinese newspaper here reported to-day.

According to the paper, four large junks mounting light guns met a Japanese warship off Macao in Kwangchow bay on September 20. The Chinese junks, according to the journal, opened fire on the Japanese vessel and later captured a launch which was sent out by the warship to investigate. The Chinese paper said that thirty Japanese sailors were wounded in the encounter.—Domei.

Hongkong Inquiry

Hongkong, Oct. 1.

Mr. R. A. C. North, the Colonial Secretary, confirmed to-day that a public or marine enquiry would be held concerning the alleged attack on Chinese fishing junks by a Japanese submarine off Cheelongkau Point on September 22.

The story of the alleged incident first became known with the arrival, aboard the ss. Scharnhorst, of ten Chinese picked up at sea, who claimed that they were the survivors of a crew of more than 300 persons of twelve fishing junks which were sunk.—Reuter.

CHAUMONT'S RETURN

The U.S.S. Chaumont is due to arrive at Shanghai on or about October 17 and to proceed thence to Kobe, to connect with the ss. President McKinley, the ss. President Cleveland, and other vessels for the United States.

American citizens desiring transportation on the U.S.S. Chaumont to Kobe for the purpose of proceeding to the United States should apply at the American Consulate General without delay.

Two Foreigners Hurt in Air Raids

Three times before midnight Chinese planes caused paroxysms of fire from Japanese anti-aircraft guns, and bombed lower Yangtszepoo regions in probable search of the home of the bombers which have been playing havoc with Chapei. The first lone flier passed over Shanghai at 9.45, and the next raid occurred at 10.30. They were the prelude to a massed attack which kept the Japanese gunfire at a crescendo for nearly three quarters of an hour about midnight. Conditions were ideal, moonless and cloudless, and there was a sheen on the dead calm water.

Two foreigners, one American, Mr. H. H. Cameron, and a Russian watchman, both of The Borden Co. egg factory at 2 Tengyueh Road, were wounded when a bomb fell on the roof of the factory just before midnight. The seriousness of their wounds and the damage to the factory could not be ascertained last night.

The raids were magnificent spectacles. Twenty or more searchlights, nearly all mounted in new positions ashore, crisscrossed the sky in incessant pursuit of the elusive quarry; tracers seared the inky blackness in all directions and cordite spluttered brightly as it fell from the shell bursts. Many tremendous explosions sounded in the area attacked but only one bomb burst—the slowly dying flash of an incendiary explosion—was visible from city vantage spots.

Leading Arabs To Be Deported From Palestine

Higher Committee Declared Illegal Body

COMMISSIONER'S MURDER LEADS TO FIRM STAND

Jerusalem, Oct. 1.

Hussein Khalidi, the Mayor of Jerusalem and a member of the Arab Higher Committee, were arrested this morning. An official communique declares the Arab Higher Committee and all its constituent bodies illegal.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of a number of leading Arabs, who will be deported from Palestine.

The Grand Mufti has been deprived of his office as President of the Supreme Moslem Council and his membership of the general Wakf committee, of which he is chairman.

The Manager of the Arab Bank has been arrested and all land frontiers are reported strictly guarded.

As news of to-day's developments spread throughout Palestine, tension increased and more serious trouble is possible but the authorities have a pre-arranged plan ready to cope with any situation which may arise.

The communique explains that it has been found necessary to institute action against certain persons whose activities have been prejudicial to the maintenance of public security in Palestine and who must be regarded as morally responsible for certain events.

It is believed that Khalidi and Saba will be taken aboard the British cruiser Sussex, which arrived at Haifa yesterday.

According to unconfirmed reports received in Cairo, the arrests followed the rejection by the authoities of an Arab demand, said to have been tantamount to an ultimatum, for the release of 200 men arrested in connection with the murder of Mr. Lowis Andrews, District Commissioner of Galilee, and Mr. McEwan, a British constable, both of whom were shot while leaving the Anglican Church last Sunday.

It is further reported that the authorities have decided to round up all members of the Arab Higher Committee. The Grand Mufti and the head of the Committee are said to have taken refuge at the Mosque of Omar.

Telephonic communication in Palestine is reported to have been suspended, and there is considerable activity among police and troops.—Reuter.

Canton-H'Kong Ships Refused River Passage

Pearl River Blocked Below Bocca Tigris Forts

BRITISH MERCHANTMEN AND GUNBOATS HELD

Hongkong, Oct. 1.

The Hongkong and Canton Steamship Company received a message at 2 o'clock this morning from the Fourth Route Army in Canton that no vessels would be allowed to pass the Bocca Tigris Forts until further notice. No reason was given. As a result, all sailings between Canton and Hongkong have been cancelled. It is reliably reported the Pearl River, which flows through the heart of Canton, has been completely blocked by the Chinese.—Reuter.

Foreign Ships Shut In

Canton, Oct. 1.

News that the Fourth Route Army here had issued a message that no vessels would be allowed to pass the Bocca Tigris Forts until further notice, thus stopping all traffic on the Pearl River, has caused considerable interest here. It is hoped that the measure will be only temporary.

There are six British merchantmen at Canton and four gunboats, the British river gunboats Tarantula and Robin, the French Argus and the American Mindanao. Two other British gunboats are understood to be somewhere this side of the obstruction which is reported to have been built by the Chinese. At Whampoa, six miles south-east of Canton, there are three Norwegian vessels, three British and two others believed to be French.—Reuter.

SECOND SLOOP SUNK AT WHAMPOA

Japanese Raiders Continue to Harrass Canton Area

Canton, Oct. 1.

Whampoa is the latest target of Japanese aerial attacks, according to reports received here.

The port had a particularly bad time yesterday when one bomb fell through the roof of the Military Academy, which was founded by General Chiang Kai-shek and is providing most of the officers now fighting against the Japanese in the Shanghai area.

In the course of two further raids this morning, a second sloop was sunk while many smaller craft in the harbour were damaged.

Bombs were also dropped on the aerodrome near Shekpai but no Chinese 'planes were on the ground at the time.—Reuter.

Canton Death Roll Claims

Canton, Oct. 1.

In an exclusive interview to-day the Mayor of Canton, Mr. Tseng Sang-fu, told the United Press he estimated 1,250 persons had been slain and more than 2,500 wounded in and near Canton since the inauguration of Japanese bombing activity in South China. Mr. Tseng said that Canton was fully equipped to withstand Japanese aeroplane attacks.—United Press.

Bombers Near Nanking Again

Nanking, Oct. 1.

Five Japanese bombers appeared above the Lishui and Chuyung area at 9.45 this morning when sirens proclaimed their arrival though they did not appear over Nanking. The local populace did not see any Japanese aeroplanes, but only heard the distant drone of motors.

It was learned that Japanese 'planes flew in zigzag fashion above various places near Nanking, apparently looking for new Chinese aerodromes. They eventually returned to Shanghai and at 10.45 the all-clear signal was given.—Reuter.

Chinese Cheery In the Pantheon Theatre Sector

Reporter Greeted by Waving Potato-masher Bomb

TROOPS UNPERTURBED BY JAPANESE SHELLS

A different sort of act than usual—possibly the theatre's last act—is being played in the Pantheon Theatre to-day. The building, situated on the alleyway which is known by courtesy as the extension of North Kiangse Road, stands a gaunt monument of war. It has changed hands several times. Its top floor has been burnt out; and judging from the appearance of the windows, the other floors have also suffered severely from fire.

But the Chinese are in it. The Japanese sortie which put a dozen or so men into the building three days ago, has been repulsed. This fact was testified to yesterday by a "North-China Daily News" reporter who visited the area, and exchanged salutes with a tattered Chinese soldier who stood back from one of the windows of the theatre, waved a potato-master bomb in a friendly manner, then peeped cautiously out of the window along the alleyway which runs into North Szechuen Road, and threw the potato-masher at some unwelcome visitor who was evidently lurking in the alley. This done, the Chinese, like a good workman, waved again, and vanished into the blackened interior.

Range Road a Ruin

It was one reel of the picture of the battle which is being fought in the Haskell Road area. Range Road, from North Szechuen Road to North Kiangse Road, on the north side, is a ruin. The houses are no more; only the bare walls are standing. The roofs have gone. Nothing is left of the row of old and picturesque buildings, witnesses of a style of architecture which Shanghai has long outgrown, except battered brickwork—less than skeletons of what once stood there.

At the North Station end of Range Road there are blockhouse barricades. At the intersection of Range and North Szechuen Roads there is another barricade held by the Japanese. At Honan Road there is a British post, held when visited, by the Welch Fusiliers. At the North Kiangse Road corner, half in a shop and half jutting out into Range Road, there is another British post.

From this post, looking beyond the gate which is on the north side of Range Road, can be seen the ruins of the once populous area of Chapei which extends as far as Jukong Road. It is populated to-day only by Chinese soldiers, who are kept on the alert by the incursions of men of the Japanese Naval Landing Party. And the result of the incursions can be seen every now and again when a stretcher party moves slowly across Paoshan Road, carrying its groaning and bandaged burden towards the North Station Administration Building, which appears to be the headquarters of the Chinese troops.

Chinese Indifferent

Outside the blockhouse at the end of North Honan Road stands a Chinese sentry. He is a youth clad in a blue-grey jacket and khaki shorts with a red stripe down the seam, and puttees and sand shoes. Rifle and machine-gun fire does not perturb him. Shells bursting one hundred yards away and throwing up stones and gravel which fall all around him, matter not at all. He is not a chatty person. When questioned, he admitted that he was a member of the 88th Division. Of other information he was singularly uncommunicative.

His comrades, seen passing in and out of alleyways leading from Paoshan Road to North Szechuen Road, were mostly clad in khaki. They seemed indifferent to what was going on around them, and even the bursting of a Japanese shell—which happened every few seconds—did not make them look up.

A few Japanese shells fell unpleasantly close to the Settlement boundary, shattering the buildings they struck and scattering debris far and wide. After the shelling the roads inside the Settlement were littered with shell fragments, mostly small splinters but some larger pieces. Soldiers walked up and down the streets on their duties, keeping close to the walls of houses but otherwise taking no notice of the rain of steel.

Administration Building Unharmed

The North Station Administration building stood yesterday almost as intact as it stood before the hostilities, except for chipping at the corners, and a small shell-hole or two in its upper structure. The station behind it, however, has not been so lucky, and torn and twisted rails could be seen below wrecked corrugated iron platform coverings.

Paoshan Road itself has suffered much less than the part of Chapei between it and North Szechuen Road. Except for the troops it is deserted. At intervals can be seen sections of the road surface which have either been hit by shells of small calibre or have been laid with land mines. It is difficult to tell which.

The British troops holding the Settlement boundary in the North Station area are taking things very calmly but efficiently. The sandbag emplacements are as strong as they can be, while in some places the Chinese themselves have reinforced the Settlement defences by erecting barbed wire barricades on their side, apparently in fear lest the Japanese should try to come through that way.

JAPANESE TROOPS HERE TO HAVE CANTEENS

Tokyo, Sept. 30.

Establishment of field canteens in North China and Shanghai was authorized in an order issued to-day by the War Ministry. The canteens will seek to satisfy the immediate needs of the troops in food, clothing and refreshments. Japanese war correspondents will be allowed to use the canteens.—Domei.

INVADERS TAKE VITAL PASS OF YENMEN, SHANSI

Way Now Wide Open for Taiyuanfu Drive

TAICHOW OCCUPIED

60,000 Chinese Ex-Red Regulars Trapped

Peiping, Oct. 1.

A major strategical success in North Shansi is claimed to-day in a Japanese military communique, which states that Chinese troops were forced to abandon the famous Yenmen Pass when outflanked by a Japanese column from the east.

Crossing the inner loop of the Great Wall, the Japanese fought their way to the south over mountainous terrain and last evening occupied the city of Taichow, south-east of Yenmen and 80 miles north of Taiyuanfu, the capital of Shansi.

The loss of Yenmen gives the Japanese access to Taiyuanfu across a broad, open valley, which is difficult to defend. Many troops operating in this sector belong to the Eighth Route Army, consisting of former Communists commanded by Gen. Chu Teh.—Reuter.

Shanyin, Oct. 1.

Rapidly advancing towards Taiyuan, the provincial capital, the Goto and Itakura detachments of the Japanese expeditionary force last night occupied Taichow, an important trading and military centre in northern Shansi.

The Chinese troops, the Japanese military authorities here announced, staged a desperate counter-attack at 4 p.m. but were forced to retreat after an hour's combat. Japanese units entered the walled town on the heels of the fleeing Chinese troops, which are now retreating towards Yuanping.

Suiyuan Counter-Move Thwarted

The Chinese troops attempted to penetrate Suiyuan by way of Pienkwan but were thwarted by the Japanese forces occupying Ningwu at 6 o'clock last night.

Fangsze was regarded by the Chinese as one of the strongest fortified positions in Shansi, about $1,000,000 having been spent in the past three years to make it impregnable. In retreating from Taichow, 120 klms. south-west of Tatung, the Chinese left behind 800 dead.

Another Japanese detachment occupied Tayingchen, about 20 klms. west of Pinghsinnwan, about 120 klms. south-east of Tatung.

Three Chinese 'planes on Wednesday raided Kwangling, on the Shansi side of the Shansi-Hopei border, one of them being shot down by Japanese anti-aircraft guns.

An independent Japanese column last night occupied Ningwu, 10 klms. south-east of Shangchi, 140 klms. south-west of Tatung.

Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, Pacification Commissioner for Shansi and Suiyuan, Japanese authorities here said, had ordered the transfer of the seat of the provincial government from Taiyuan to Linfen, about 200 klms. southwest of Tatung.

60,000 Chinese Trapped

The Japanese forces, according to the Japanese authorities here, have enveloped 60,000 Chinese regular and Communist troops in the Taichow plain. These men, the officers said, will be "annihilated" unless they escape into the mountains.

The first breach in Taichow's defences was made by the Uyeda detachment, which occupied the town's north gate at 4 p.m. The Terada detachment meanwhile attacked on the securely barred East Gate. Under a hail of rifle and machine-gun bullets, the Japanese soldiers, says a military communique, scaled the wall and drove the Chinese away with hand-grenades. A breach was made in the inner wall with explosives, and the Japanese troops poured into the town. After a three-hour bitter hand-to-hand combat, the Chinese troops fled from the town.—Domei.

FAR EAST TROUBLE BEST LEFT ALONE

Japanese Consul-General in Geneva Gives Advice

Geneva, Oct. 1.

"At the moment it seems best to allow things to take their course," declared Mr. Isumo, the Japanese Consul-General here, when questioned to-day regarding whether there was at present any hope of peace in the Far East.

BRITISH AEROPLANES TO CHINA

Long-Standing Contract Will Be Fulfilled

London, Sept. 30.

It was explained to-day in official quarters, in connection with press references to a permit issued to the Gloster Aircraft Company to supply aeroplanes to the Chinese Government, that this contract was arranged long before the hostilities with Japan.

The terms of the contract provided for mechanics to go out with the machines to assemble them. There is no question of British pilots flying the aeroplanes.—Wireless through Reuter.

FIERCE BATTLE CONTINUES ON SHANGHAI FRONT

Japanese Claim Further Advances, Denied by the Chinese: Huge Pillbox Mined

FURTHER minor claims were reported by the Japanese yesterday in the fighting between the North Station and Lotien. The Lotien-Shanghai highway was the scene of the main activity reported in official communiques, the Japanese claiming to have gained control of the Lotien-Liuchiahang section.

Chinese statements deny any Japanese advance, particularly the claim that Liuhang had fallen. In the North Station area, also, they claim to have repulsed all Japanese attacks.

A Japanese spokesman stated yesterday that the Japanese Army occupied the southern half of Liuhang Village yesterday morning and, having taken the northern half several days ago, now were in complete possession of the town. They also had advanced 500 metres in the direction of Kiating, their lines being 3,000 metres beyond Lotien.

Severe hand-to-hand fighting in the maze of streets between North Szechuen and Paoshan Roads featured yesterday's hostilities along the Shanghai front. Two detachments of the Naval Landing Party, which began their advance from North Szechuen Road three days ago, claimed further progress along a line stretching between Range Road and the Wangpang Bridge.

Past Railway

These units, a naval communique claimed last night, have succeeded in driving the Chinese troops beyond the Shanghai-Woosung Railway line.

The Japanese advance, the announcement said, was made along streets planted with land-mines and dominated by Chinese machine-guns and snipers' rifles.

A Chinese trench-mortar battery, which proved to be a thorn in the Japanese side, was yesterday afternoon captured by the Ohnishi unit in a surprise raid.

With the battery out of action, the Japanese progress in the vicinity of the intersection of Paoshan and Paoshing Roads "was made easier," the communique claimed.

The communique paid tribute to the courage displayed by members of the Sano detachment, which at noon yesterday captured a Chinese stronghold at the Chihsiu Girls' Middle School on Paoshing Road. Later in the day, the unit launched an attack on the San Yi Lee, a terrace.

The units advancing into Chapei were supported throughout the day by the Landing Party's artillery and naval aeroplanes.

Also bombed during the day were Chinese positions at Kating and Nanhsiang.

Lotien Front

On the Lotien front, Colonel Yoji Wachi's detachment on Thursday night occupied the village of Yangchiatsun and immediately launched an attack on the Chinese positions west of the village, an Army communique said last night.

The Takamori detachment on Thursday crossed the Tiching Creek and by 8 o'clock at night had captured the villages of Changchiachiao and Tapingchiao. Yesterday morning, this detachment crossed the Liuho-Shanghai highway, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon launched an attack on the Chinese positions south of the Chuchai and Tapingchiao villages. The unit, an Army communique said, encountered fierce resistance.

The Tagami, Fukutomi, Tanaka and Kakiuchi detachments, supported by artillery, yesterday afternoon, according to an Army announcement, captured Chinese positions at Liuchiahang, Liuchiachiao and the vicinity.

The Lotien-Liuchiahang section of the Liuho-Shanghai highway was said to be under complete Japanese control.

Mining Operations

Tunnelling and mining operations were the greatest factors in the Japanese Army attack against a huge concrete pillbox this week on the Lotien-Liuhang sector, which their heaviest artillery and aerial bombs could not shatter, stated the military spokesman at the press conference yesterday. As their mines exploded the infantry rushed in and drove the Chinese troops from their stronghold.

According to the spokesman, the pillbox was 100 metres square and had been constructed from a number of concrete buildings, which were connected and reinforced for military purposes. Two separate tunnels were built.

When it was pointed out by a journalist that the sub-surface water might be a handicap, the spokesman said that the tunnels were dug only one metre down and that infantrymen bailed out the water while the engineers continued digging.

Victory Denied

Chinese claims of a victory in the Kiangwan sector were emphatically denied last night by a Japanese military spokesman.

There has been practically no military activity in the area during the day yesterday, and the Japanese lines had remained intact, he asserted.

Huge Fires

Fires extending over two or three miles beyond Kiangwan were noted yesterday afternoon. Village after village was seen going up in flames. With the horizon finally clouded by smoke, it was difficult to see what was going on, but it appeared from the direction of the ever-increasing fires, that the Japanese were making headway in that sector.

From far out, in the direction of Liuhang, there were a series of explosions which sent great mushrooms of smoke into the air. The explosions were bigger than bomb explosions, since they shook the ground in Shanghai though they appeared to be almost a dozen miles away.

Over Pootung

A Japanese plane flew over Pootung at intervals during the day, after a bombardment of Chinese positions which was kept up during most of the previous night. Many bombs were dropped, mostly in the neighbourhood of the Chinese positions about a mile inland from Mackenzie's godown.

The North Station area was again heavily shelled. Aeroplanes also dropped heavy bombs in the district just north of the station, apparently still seeking for the Chinese positions on the railway crossings. The planes flew at a considerable height, out of respect to the accuracy of the Chinese anti-aircraft fire which again yesterday was confined to machine-guns. A big fire was caused near the corner of Jukong Road near Haskell Road, which was still blazing last night.

The Chinese replied, apparently with trench mortars, to the Japanese shelling, and did some damage to buildings behind the Japanese lines. A shell fell through the roof of 942 Haining Road, but no one was wounded.

Twenty-four Hours

Twenty-four hours' continuous Japanese bombardment and bombing has failed to shake the Chinese line from Lotien to Chapei, according to a Chinese military spokesman at a press conference yesterday afternoon. Greatly reinforced, the Japanese forces have attacked vigorously at certain points but the stubborn resistance put up by the Chinese troops has withstood the repeated assaults.

While denying the rumoured capture of Liuhang by the Japanese, the spokesman said the Chinese defenders in this sector scored a signal success around Mengwan, Kookache and Changche, about 2,000 metres to the southeast of Liuhang, in the morning. After having been at grips with the Japanese for several hours since early morning, the Chinese succeeded in driving away the invaders. In the fighting, about 500 Japanese were killed or wounded and five Japanese officers were killed, including one named Suzuki. A machine-gun, a number of rifles, and a large quantity of ammunition were seized by the Chinese.

Retreat Claimed

A Chinese attack launched yesterday morning in the vicinity of the Civic Centre drove the Japanese away in great confusion, according to the spokesman. Japanese troops in this sector had been withdrawing to Yangtszepoo and Woosung. In fact, their retreat was so rapid that in a short time the field became empty as far as the Chinese soldiers could see.

Fierce fighting has also been going on along a line from Ssu-siang-kung-miao, north-west of Lotien, to Lotien, and from Lotien to Liuhang, according to the spokesman. North of Ssu-siang-kung-miao the Japanese forces, about one regiment strong, made several attempts to break through the Chinese line but failed to make any impression on Chinese resistance.

South of Liuhang on the north bank of the Woosung Creek, small parties of Japanese soldiers attempted to surprise the Chinese troops under cover of darkness but without success, the spokesman said. At Koochiache, southeast of Liuhang, a portion of the wire entanglements was damaged by Japanese shelling.

East of North Station

There was considerable machine-gun and hand-to-hand fighting east of the North Station. Chinese troops, advancing quietly during the night, surprised the Japanese in occupation of the Chinese houses to the north of Range Road between North Szechuen and North Kiangse Roads, the spokesman said. Fuseng Road and Haskell Road, two narrow streets which end on Range Road, were held by the Japanese with several machine-guns. Chinese soldiers avoided these machine-guns, and by breaking through some of the nearby houses, reached the rear of the Japanese machine-gunners. A few hand-grenades followed by machine-gunning killed a number of the Japanese, the rest escaped. Japanese attempts to enter Chapei by way of Paoshing Road proved costly and fruitless, the spokesman said.

Tachang Bombed

Early yesterday morning, Japanese naval aircraft units bombed Chinese troop concentrations and gun emplacements at Tachang and Liuchiahang, a Japanese Fleet communique revealed yesterday morning.

Chinese military positions to the west of Liuchiahang were simultaneously bombed. According to the announcement, the intensive bombing was conducted by naval air units to assist the land forces in their operations.

On Thursday evening, the communique continued, Japanese naval aircraft bombed communication lines near Hangchow and Nanhsiang. Chinese positions in the Kiangwan and Tangchiao sectors, the communique said, were also bombed.

BLAZE SWEEPS OVER COAL YARD

Shell Said to Have Started Fire in Pootung

A glow, which was discernible from high buildings in the French Concession and the Settlement, lit up the Pootung water front, opposite the Nantao Bund, last night shortly after 9 o'clock.

Information from Chinese sources reported that a coal yard, owned by a Chinese coal merchants' association, was on fire, the locality being Chowkadoo, in the Peilienching district. No confirmation was obtainable from official quarters last night.

The fire began not long after a gun duel between Japanese naval guns and Chinese batteries in Pootung and thus gave rise to the belief that a shell probably had ignited the coal yard. The bombardment was brief, a few shells being exchanged between 8.30 p.m. and 9 p.m.

SS. SHANTUNG SAILS THIS MORNING

The B. & S. ss. Shantung is sailing this morning instead of last night, due to the necessity of unloading cargo which had been accepted for Canton. Owing to the blockade of the Pearl River, Canton is now closed to steamers.

ATROCITY PICTURES CALLED FAKES

Alleged False Bayonet Scene Published in U.S.A.

JAPANESE ACCUSATION OF CHINESE

New York, Sept. 30.

Chinese authorities were accused here to-day of faking photographs allegedly showing Japanese soldiers engaged in bayonet practice on the propped up body of a Chinese.

The photographs were circulated by the news photography department of an American news agency and were printed in newspapers throughout the country.

Lt.-Col. Takahashi, Japanese Army officer who is visiting Japanese military attaches in leading cities throughout the world, branded the photographs as fakes, although admitting that the soldiers were dressed in Japanese army uniforms.

"But the soldiers are Chinese," he said, claiming that Chinese officials had faked the pictures. He alleged that Japanese-trained soldiers use the bayonet in an entirely different manner from that shown in the photograph. "You can see that they are Chinese by the way they stand," the officer said. "Our combat technique is entirely different."

The Japanese officer said he had found no resentment against Japan in the United States where he has been visiting for several weeks. He sailed from here to-day for Europe in the Berengaria.—United Press.

TELEGRAMS IN CODE AGAIN ACCEPTED

Must First be Certified by Respective Consuls

Coded telegrams of foreigners will now be accepted by the Chinese Government Telegraph Administration, Ministry of Communications, according to a notification issued yesterday. Foreigners sending such telegrams, however, must first have their respective consuls certify that the messages contain no political or military intelligence.

Some time ago the Chinese Government Telegraph Administration received instructions from the Ministry of Communication prohibiting the use of codes in private telegrams for domestic transmission.

The new instruction from the Chinese Ministry of Communications reads: "Coded telegraphs of foreign merchants may be despatched if the copy of message is countersigned or sealed by their respective consul certifying that it contains no political and/or military intelligence."

POST OFFICE DEMAND "BREATHING SPACE"

No More Parcels in Bulk Until After Monday

No more parcels in bulk will be accepted by the Chinese Post Office until after next Monday, it was announced by the postal authorities on Thursday.

Parcels in bulk consist of groups of five or more parcels. This step has been taken, it was stated yesterday, owing to the huge number of parcels which have been pouring in, necessitating a "breathing space" for the harassed staff of the Post Office in order to clear away the stacks of parcels already awaiting dispatch before accepting further quantities.

The ban on parcels does not affect single parcels, which will be accepted as usual.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB ORGANIZED

Mayor O. K. Yui to Address New Organization

With a view to promoting international friendship, a group of leading Chinese citizens including Mr. K. P. Chen, Mr. Singloh Hsu, Mr. Li Ming, Mr. O. S. Lieu, Mr. Tsuyee Pei, Mr. P. W. Tsou, Mr. Chi Tse and Dr. Herman C. E. Liu are organizing a Cosmopolitan Club in Shanghai. The inaugural meeting will be held at Park Hotel on Wednesday, October 6, at 12.15 p.m., when Mr. O. K. Yui, the Mayor, will address the meeting.

The Club is to hold regular monthly luncheon meetings, while special meetings may be arranged by the executive committee. The membership will be limited to 30, it is reported. Among those who have joined the new organization are: Messrs. John Alexander, Henri Bar, Michel Breal, Louis Chevretton, Randall Gould, Ch. Grosbois, Louis Louzier, E. T. Nash, C. W. Petitt, W. H. Plant, J. B. Powell and Rev. Emory W. Luccock.

The office of the new club is located at Room 220, 749 Bubbling Well Road.

CHINESE KILLED BY CAR

Il Duce Hailed By Enthusiastic Crowds in Rome

Tremendous Welcome Given on Return from Berlin

SIG. MUSSOLINI TELLS OF ACHIEVEMENTS

Rome, Sept. 30.

Following his German visit, Sig. Mussolini to-day made a triumphant return to Rome.

All church bells and sirens of the city added to the deafening cheers of the populace as his special train came into the station at 6.30 o'clock this evening. All shops, offices and factories were closed at 1 o'clock to give the people an opportunity of taking part in the demonstration and the entire city was a sea of flags and pennants, the Italian tricolore alternating with the Swastika. The route from the station to the Palazzo Venezia was solidly packed on both sides of the streets with a mass of humanity.

After reaching the Palazzo Venezia, Sig. Mussolini made a short speech from the balcony stating that he had come back from his trip to Germany and his conversations with the Fuehrer with a deep impression and unforgettable memories. The Italo-German friendship based on the Rome-Berlin axis had penetrated deep into the hearts of both nations in these last few days and would stay there. The aims of this friendship were the close solidarity of both revolutions and the rebirth of peace between nations worthy of the name.

Cheers for Il Duce and Italy mingled with those for Herr Hitler and Germany long after Sig. Mussolini had left the balcony.—Trans-Ocean.

Fuehrer Invited to Italy

Berlin, Sept. 30.

It is stated that Sig. Mussolini, during his stay in Berlin, invited Chancellor Hitler to visit him again in Italy. Il Duce renewed this invitation in his farewell telegram to the Chancellor from the Austro-German frontier. Informed quarters declare that no date for such a visit has been discussed and point out that a long time elapsed between the first and the second meeting of the two statesmen and that it is consequently improbable that Chancellor Hitler will travel to Italy in the near future.

At the personal order of Sig Mussolini, Count Magistrati, Councillor at the Italian Embassy in Berlin, handed Chancellor Hitler a silver framed portrait of Il Duce, bearing in Sig. Mussolini's own handwriting, the inscription, "To the Fuehrer and Chancellor of the Third Reich Adolf Hitler in cordial friendship—Mussolini, Berlin, 29th September of the year 15."—Trans-Ocean.

TWO U.S. WARSHIPS DUE HERE

Canopus Taking 30 Civilians to Tsingtao and Kobe

The U.S.S. Canopus is due to arrive at Woosung at about 10 a.m. to-morrow from Manila, and will take on board about 30 passengers for Kobe and Tsingtao.

Boats from the U.S.S. Augusta will leave the Customs Jetty at 8 a.m. to-morrow, taking passengers to the U.S.S. Finch, which will effect the transfer to the Canopus at Woosung. The vessel will leave Woosung for Tsingtao and Kobe at about 2 p.m. No further requests for accommodation can be considered, as the Canopus already has a full passenger list.

The U.S.S. Pecos will berth at the Texas Co's Dock this morning, arriving from Chefoo and Tsingtao on her way to Manila. Passengers for Manila will board boats from the U.S.S. Augusta at the Customs Jetty at 8 a.m. on Monday, and will be taken to the U.S.S. Finch for transfer at the Texas Co's Dock. The Pecos is due to sail on the same day.

Chickens Attempt To Evacuate

Fascinated Crowd Stares Skyward at Drama

It was a false alarm yesterday afternoon for many people on Nanking Road. Seeing the corner of Nanking Road and Kiangse Road crowded with people all craning their necks to stare skywards with a fascinated gaze, they too stopped to search the sky apprehensively. Finding nothing of a particularly alarming shape and noting the signs of amusement on the faces all around they began to question the knowing what it was all about. The object of the crowd's interest proved to be a pair of runaway chickens strutting rebelliously along a narrow ledge on the side of the building with a whole family in pursuit. After the first blunt effort to recapture the fowl had failed, strategy was resorted to. Since it was impossible to surround the chickens, the next best thing was done. With an old Chinese lady bellowing orders like a sergeant major, various members of the family approached the feathered evacuees from various angles while the crowd below excitedly watched every move. Long poles were brought into play from the roof and these were the decisive factor in winning the game as the fowl fluttered and squawked their way back into captivity. The crowd moved on.

DRYDOCK IS IN USE AGAIN

Shanghai Dockyards Help in Recovery Movement

Another sign of return to more normal conditions in Shanghai industrial circles was noted yesterday when Shanghai Dockyards, Ltd., drydocked the Fukwang, a tanker belonging to the A.P.C. at their Yangtszepoo dock. This set the seal on resumed business operations of this well-known dockyard which, although suffering from restrictions imposed by the present emergency, has managed to carry on in a minor way since the beginning of hostilities.

Yesterday, a total of 400 men were mustered for duty and additional impetus was thereby given to normal conditions. A Chinese vessel is already in drydock but yesterday's handling of the tanker marks a new stage in conditions of local recovery. Dockworkers are also engaged on rush repairs on the cable vessel Pacific.

JAPANESE ANNOUNCE CASUALTIES

Nearly 2,000 Killed in One Month's Fighting

The military spokesman at yesterday's Japanese press conference announced that the Japanese Army casualties in the Shanghai area between August 23 and September 27, amounted to 1,893 killed and 5,637 wounded. He also stated that the Chinese losses were approximately 20,000 killed and 30,000 wounded. No mention was made of the number of prisoners taken.

H.M. ENVOY SAILING ON REST CURE

To Visit South Seas for a Two Months' Period

Steadily recovering from his wound, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to China, will leave here next Monday in the British sloop, H.M.S. Falmouth, to begin his two-month rest cure trip to the South Seas.

Accompanied by Lady Knatchbull-Hugessen and their two daughters, Sir Hughe will first go to Hongkong, where he will board the Empress of Asia for Manila. Later he will visit Bali and other places in the Dutch East Indies. He will return to Shanghai toward the end of November.

CUSTOMS RUMOUR UNCONFIRMED

Japanese Said to Have Begun in Lay Road Post

Interviewed by the Central News yesterday afternoon, Mr. L. F. Lawford, Commissioner of the Shanghai Customs, said that so far he had not received any news regarding the reported establishment by the Japanese of a customs office on Lay Road in the Yangtszepoo district. Mr. Lawford said that with the Japanese forces in control of the eastern area, it had been extremely difficult to get any information therefrom.

According to a report in the "China Evening News," a Chinese vernacular, yesterday afternoon, the Japanese customs office on Lay Road formally started functioning yesterday.

Hubbell Hurls Giants to Pennant Victory

CAPTURE AFTER WIN OVER PHILLIES

The New York Teams to Fight Their Fifth World Series

VETERAN PITCHER HAS 22nd VICTORY

New York, Sept. 30.

For the second consecutive year Carl Hubbell, veteran southpaw who led the National League twirlers last year for the third time in his 15-year pitching career, hurled the New York Giants to pennant honours to-day.

It was the veteran hurler's twenty-second victory of the season. The southpaw moundsman beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1, in the opening game of a double bill and thus brought about a second successive "Nickel" World Series.

When the Giants meet the New York Yankees in this season's World Series, starting on October 5, it will mark the fifth time that the two New York teams have battled for world honours. Once before they met on three successive occasions, from 1921 to 1923.

The Giants Victory

Although the Terrymen lost the nightcap to the Philadelphians 6 to 2, and the Chicago Cubs beat the Reds, 4 to 1, the Giants won the National League pennant because of two called games being registered as official ties earlier in the season.

Carl Hubbell hurled the Giants to a brilliant victory in the opening game despite a homer by Dolph Camilli of the Phils. The Terrymen scored the winning run in the third inning for a 2-1 triumph. In the nightcap, however, the Phillies came back strongly and won, 6 to 2, tallying thrice in the eight after Ryan had homered.

Todd's Four Triples

The Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals largely through the scoring of four triples by Al Todd. The Bucs scored four runs in the first inning, sending Weiland to the showers.

The Boston Bees won a double victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers, scoring three runs in the first inning of the opener to win, 5 to 2. In the second game, Ray Mueller homered in the seventh for a 3-2 win.

A double triumph was scored by the Philadelphia Athletics over the New York Yanks. Frankie Hayes tripled and singled to help the Mackmen win the opener, 8 to 3, scoring three in the fifth. In the nightcap, the Athletics went ahead when they scored three in the sixth for a 6-3 victory.

Gaffke's Winning Homer

The Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators shared a doubleheader. The Red Sox went down in the opener, 4-3, as Fabian Gaffke homered and brought in the winning run. In the nightcap, the Red Sox, however, went off on a batting spree and scored in all but the first and sixth innings, winning, 9 to 3.

The Cleveland Indians also garnered a double-header. Hal Trosky's two doubles scored three men for a 6-4 win in the opener, while in the nightcap, the Sioux trounced the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 1, scoring all four runs in the first inning.

WEEK-END SPORTING PROGRAMME

Hongkong, Shanghai Soccer Champions Meet To-day

SEMI-FINAL GAME IN CRICKET KNOCK-OUT

In one of the most promising soccer games arranged in Shanghai for many a season the Royal Ulster Rifles and the Association Sportif Francais will meet at the Canidrome Ground this afternoon. The teams are reigning champions of Hongkong and Shanghai and to the hundreds of partisans expected in the stands the encounter will have the highly exciting flavour of an Interport. The season is young and the men will be badly short of match practice, nevertheless the Army players are always in good condition and the local premiers have had one good try-out and plenty of runs in the last fortnight.

A.S.F. Confident

Both teams are practically at full strength. Miller, the Rifles' left-half, has an injured knee and will be the only absentee from the team which finished up as Colony champions. The A.S.F. will be short of their usual outside left who has been replaced by a useful understudy. "We are very confident," declared the A.S.F. spokesman yesterday. One of the Rifles was more cautious. "We have not seen them yet," he answered the question of prospects. Teams will probably line-up as follows:—

ROYAL ULSTER RIFLES: Connor (goal) Pickering, Stevens, McGonigle, Galbraith, Murdoch, Erwin, Killen, Moore (Capt), Doherty, and Ferguson.

ASSOCIATION SPORTIF FRANCAIS: Boissezon (Goal), L. Marcal, K. Neubourg, Collet, Segalen, Bell, Monnot, Bossuet (Capt), Roboostoff, Belinky, and Favacho.

Bowls Pairs Title

Lawn bowlers, now in the last month of their season, have a big and interesting programme for the week-end. The most important of the three big fixtures will be this afternoon's final duel for the pairs championship of the Lawn Bowls Association. H. A. and F. C. Ozorio of the Clube Lusitano, and J. Munro and R. Baldwin, of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, are opposed and it is thought in many quarters that the latter pair, helped by the big dash of experience possessed by the veteran Interporter, Munro, may win.

On neighbouring greens a massed game will be played this afternoon and to-morrow the Shanghai Scottish, Past and Present, will take on the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club in an all-day match. The teams for to-morrow's match are:—

S.L.B.C.: W. J. Monk (skip), C. A. Pratt, F. H. Jeune, G. H. Rendall; F. R. Harmer (skip), A. R. Eisenhut, J. J. Evans, F. J. Drakeford; R. Baldwin (skip), H. S. Bell, E. Jacobs, E. E. Wallwork; W. J. Ward (skip), T. J. Goodman, G. B. Fryer, A. Parkhill; A. Harvey (skip), F. S. Ward, J. K. Scobie, H. C. Clements; Reserves: A. Sinclair, A. P. Sutherland and G. O. Jackson.

SHANGHAI SCOTTISH: C. W. Glover (skip), G. Sinclair, J. K. Ewing, H. E. D. Adams; D. Ramsay (skip), A. S. Phillips, J. A. C. Law, J. A. Stoddart; C. W. Porter (skip), R. Mcfarlane, J. Henry, D. Mcdonald; H. Wallace (skip), J. A. Morton, C. D. Belton, H. J. Noble; J. Munro (skip), T. Crosthwaite, M. H. Gordon, A. Y. Tait; Reserves: J. L. Henry, W. Hendry and A. C. Sinclair.

Cricket Semi-Final

Playing for the right to meet the Martyrs in the final of the Shanghai Cricket Club's knock-out competition, inaugurated this season, the Butterflies and the Non-Benders will meet to-day, or to-morrow if the weather is unkind. On form Donald Leach's side is favoured to play out the final with the Martyrs probably the following week-end.

The sporting programme for the week-end is as follows:—

TO-DAY

SOCCER: Royal Ulster Rifles v. A.S.F., Canidrome, starting 3 p.m.

LAWN BOWLS: Association Pairs Championship, Recs green, starting 2.30. Massed game, starting 12.30 on Recs and S.L.B.C. greens.

CRICKET: Butterflies v. Non-Benders, 1.15 p.m. S.C.C. Ground.

S.C.C. XI v. S.R.C. XI, 1.15 p.m. S.R.C. Ground.

TO-MORROW

SOCCER: Practice match, S.F.X.A.A. v. S.R.C. Canidrome, 3 p.m. S.F.C. v. Loyals on R.C. 5.

LAWN BOWLS: Shanghai Scottish, Past and Present, v. S.L.B.C. starting 9.45, tiffin being held in the clubhouse even if the weather stops the game.

CRICKET: H. T. Smith's XI v. C. J. H. Spraggett's XI 1.15 p.m. S.C.C. Ground.

Tremendous Welcome for Endeavour

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 1.

A tremendous welcome awaited Endeavour I, which was found after having been missing for 13 days, when it arrived at Gosport to-day, escorted by an armada of various craft.

Pandemonium broke loose on shore when a gust of wind lifted the haze and the Endeavour was revealed to the huge crowds which had been pouring into Gosport since dawn.

The skipper and the crew were all well. The yacht has little to show for its buffeting in the Atlantic.

The Endeavour disappeared after breaking a tow in a storm off Nantucket, and was only sighted by the tanker Cheyenne, 260 miles south-west of Fastnet, after a frantic search lasting 13 days.—Reuter.

CARNERA NOT TO BOX IN ENGLAND

Giant Italian Said to be Physically Unfit

London, Oct. 1.

The Board of Control, the supreme authority in boxing matters in Britain, has refused to allow the Italian boxer Primo Carnera, the former world champion heavyweight, to fight at Albert Hall at a meeting on October 28 or to take part in any other bout in England.

The British boxing authorities' refusal to grant Carnera the licence for bouts in England, so it is declared, is due to the fact that the Italian super-heavyweight was found to be "physically unfit" at a medical examination.—Trans-Ocean.

NEW GRAND STAND FOR BRIGHTON

The grand stand at Brighton racecourse, which is 80 years old, is to be demolished, and a new one, to accommodate 2,000 people, is to be built at a cost of £10,000. The new stand will be set back so that it will not obstruct the view from Tattersall's stand, and the Club Stand. This will mark the completion of the programme on which the lessees embarked eight years ago. They are asking the Town Council for a renewal of their lease for another five years. The council are to be asked to spend £9,000 on repaving and widening the esplanade between the Grand Hotel and the West Pier, linking up with the coronation esplanade, which extends to Hove. This is part of the £112,000 scheme for the general improvement of the main sea front.

ENGLISH WOMEN'S GOLF FINAL

Holder Meets Warwickshire Ex-champion

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Stenodoc, Sept. 30.

As a result of to-day's semi-finals, which were played in a strong wind, Miss Wanda Morgan, the holder, will meet Miss Madeleine Fyshe, former Warwickshire champion, in the 36-hole final of the English women's golf championship.

Playing below form, Miss Morgan eliminated Mrs. Alan Hartley, of Cheshire, by 3 and 1, while Miss Fyshe entered the final by defeating Miss Brenda Norris, the 21-year-old Sussex champion, by 2 and 1.—Reuter.

1st VARDON TROPHY TO C. WHITCOMBE

Averaged 71.62 Through Stroke Play Season

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 1.

Charles Whitcombe, is the first winner of the Vardon trophy, instituted this year for the player with the best average in the season's major stroke tournaments.

Whitcombe's average for 24 rounds was 71.62, while Mahon, the Irish champion, was second with an average of 71.9 for 22 rounds.

Henry Cotton, the British and German open champion, had an average of 72 for 18 rounds, this latter being the minimum number for eligibility.—Reuter.

S'HAI FOOTBALL CLUB'S ANNUAL MEETING

Very well attended, the annual meeting of the Shanghai Football club was held last night in the Rowing Club. The following office bearers were elected:—President, Brig-Gen. E. B. Macnaghten; Vice-presidents, T. L. Rawsthorne, G. F. Forshaw, J. R. Weeks, and R. Grimshaw; Committee, Capt. H. G. Reed, A. C. Sinclair, G. F. Swettenham, F. Schaffer, R. B. Roach, and D. M. Mitchell; Balloting Committee, J. Weaver, and L. F. Stokes, Team captain, C. F. Kimber. Players will have a practice game at the American School to-day and to-morrow will play the Loyals at R.G.5.

"Y" BASEBALLERS IN SECOND WIN

Augusta Team Beaten by 32-27 Points

VAN ALLEN NETS 14 POINTS FOR NAVY

A powerful third quarter rally enabled the Foreign Y.M.C.A. basketball squad to score their second consecutive triumph last night over the U.S.S. Augusta quintet. The game was played in the Y gymnasium before a large crowd of spectators.

The Ymca starting line-up, consisting of Carson, Squires, Ryan, Biesel, and Krause, was the same as that which opened Wednesday's encounter. The Navy made a few changes in their starting group sending in Van Allen, Olnmausen, Bruflap, Richman and Schmitz to open the contest.

A Harder Battle

The Augusta quintet showed considerable improvement over the last game and gave the "Y" outfit a stiff battle through the first half. The score was tied at least four times in this period with the lead changing hands just as often as it was deadlocked. Again two distinct teams were used by both sides the substitutions taking place at the quarters. With the first half rapidly drawing to a close, Rook, right forward for the Augusta, was awarded a foul shot and tossed in a neat basket to place his team ahead by one point just before the whistle.

Winning Rally

The original starters came in again at the opening of the second half and the Ymca basketeers immediately went on a scoring spree. Squires and Carson bore the brunt of the attack scoring four baskets and three baskets respectively. Biesel and Krause each added two points to bring the Y.M.C.A. total to 32 points before the end of the third quarter. In this period the Augusta managed to add only one basket to their first half total.

Renewed substitution apparently broke up the "Y's" combination for the team was not able to add any more points during the remainder of the contest. The Navy quintet, however, began cutting down the Ymca lead and added eight points before the final whistle blew, leaving the score at 32 to 27.

Offensively both teams played a helter-skelter type of basketball, however, the Navy team managed to set up one or two good blocks. The man-for-man defence, being the one most easily adapted to individual play, was the type resorted to by both outfits.

Van Allen of the Augusta was the outstanding point maker of the game, netting 14 points for his side. Carson and Squires, however, pushed him hard for premier honours garnering 12 points and 10 points respectively.

The line-ups read:—

HUNGARIAN'S RECORD FOR TWO MILES

Budapest, Sept. 30.

The Hungarian middle-distance runner, Miklos Szabo, under the supervision of his sports union undertook an attempt to-day to lower the existing world record for two miles, (3,218 metres).

The attempt proved successful, Szabo covering the distance in 8 min. 56 sec., the best officially recognized performance hitherto being that of the American runner Donald Lash with 8 min. 58.4 sec.

After the international contest between Hungary and Sweden on October 9 and 10, Szabo will attempt to establish new world records for the distances of 2,000 and 3,000 metres.—Trans-Ocean.

CHOLERA STATISTICS

The following is a table giving the total number of proved cases of cholera, and deaths caused by cholera since the outbreak of the disease on August 30 this year. These cholera cases have been confirmed, by bacteriological examination in hospitals situated in the International Settlement, and include all cases and deaths up to and including September 30:—

	Cases	Deaths
Residents of International Settlement	541	120
Residents of French Concession	121	16
Residents of Outlying Chinese Areas	96	12
No fixed abode (presumably refugees)	124	21
	882	169

The total number of clinically suspected cases in Settlement hospitals, also up to September 30, was 2,021; this total includes the 882 confirmed cases mentioned in the above table.

It is reiterated that the above figures are for cases treated in International Settlement hospitals only.

FROM DAY TO DAY

THE managements of the Nanking and Metropol Theatres announce that they have made arrangements for buses to attend at the conclusion of the night shows.

THE Catholics in Shanghai held a mass yesterday during which prayers were offered for the success of China's cause in the present emergency, states a report to the "Sin Wen Pao."

THE St. John's University has reopened for the autumn session, according to a report to the Chinese press, which says that 540 former students of the college and the middle school have enrolled for the coming semester.

THE Straits Government, at the request of Hongkong, is making preparations to quarter several thousands of British refugees from China. It is understood that the town hall and other public buildings are being requisitioned for the purpose.

THE American Consulate General, Shanghai, will appreciate information of the present whereabouts of the following persons: Prof. and Mrs. G. Irving Gavett of Seattle; last known address Cathay Mansions; Dr. M. D. Gersh or Gershevitch, last known address 697 Avenue Joffre; Frank W. Ropero, formerly with radio station XQHE at 9 Route Doumer; Mariana Vishnevski, understood to have left Nanking for Shanghai about September 1st.

THE staff of the "Tsingtao Times" declared a general strike on September 29, says a dispatch to the "China Times." In a manifesto issued after the strike, the staff gave the pro-Japanese editorial policy of the editor and his maltreatment of some staff members as reasons for their drastic step. Since yesterday the municipal authorities in Tsingtao have been mediating for a settlement, against which the strikers are holding out, demanding the resignation of the editor.

THE Navy Y.M.C.A. wishes to acknowledge with thanks the books, magazines, playing cards, clothing and gramophone records received from the following people during the month of September:—Mrs. J. B. Davies, Manager of Park Hotel, Mrs. H. V. Bernard, Mr. O. Klink, Mr. A. W. P. Soong, Mrs. Arnold, Miss M. A. Frame, Mrs. Stzepensky, Mrs. Van Shuren, Mr. Y. W. C. The Navy "Y" can still use novels and story magazines.

OBITUARY

Miss M. D. Morton

Miss Manuella D. Morton died on September 30 in the Country Hospital. Miss Morton was a native of New Jersey. She came to China in 1903 as a missionary of the Presbyterian Church, engaging in educational work first in Ningpo where she was associated with her sister, Miss Annie Morton. Later her sister went to Changsha, Hunan, where she helped in the development of the well known Fuh Siang Girls' School, and Miss Manuella Morton was transferred to Shanghai to the Mary Farnham Girls' School at South Gate. The development of that school owes much to her energy and executive ability.

On October 5, 1933, upon her seventieth birthday she was granted honourable retirement by her mission. But China was her home and she chose to continue to live in Shanghai where she could retain close relationship with the many students of those earlier years. When, upon August 12 of this year, she was compelled a second time to evacuate her Hongkew home, she was taken to the Country Hospital where her death occurred. The funeral services will be held in the Pahsienjao Cemetery at three o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. F. E. Dilley

Letters have been received telling of the death in Cleveland, Ohio, on August 9 of Dr. Frederick E. Dilley.

Dr. Dilley came to China in 1907 under the Presbyterian Mission. From 1907 to 1920 he had charge of a hospital in Peiping although he was twice released for special service, once to join in a successful fight against bubonic plague for which service he was decorated by the Chinese Government and once for service with the American Red Cross at Omsk, holding the rank of Major in the United States Army. Since 1921 he has been associated with the Temple Hill Hospital in Chefoo as head of the Department of Surgery and for some years as General Superintendent.

He laid great stress upon the training of Christian Chinese nurses and doctors so that he was known not only as a courageous and skilful surgeon, infinitely painstaking and dependable but also as a successful teacher. He went to America on health leave in 1936 and although for a time apparently successful x-ray treatments greatly encouraged hope of recovery, the late spring brought a return of his trouble which resulted in his death after painful but patient weeks in the hospital.

Mrs. Dilley and their six sons and daughters are all in America.

WARDRESS IS FIRST WOMAN MEDALIST

Miss Harlamoff Remained at Gaol in Crisis

ASSISTED IN OPERATIONS AFTER SHELLING

Miss A. D. Harlamoff, the Ward Road Gaol wardress who was decorated with the Police Distinguished Conduct Medal on Thursday, is the first woman ever to receive the coveted award.

She only joined the Municipal service last January, but with her decoration she receives one year's seniority. She is now temporarily attached to the Sinza Police Station.

The D.C.M. was conferred on Miss Harlamoff because of her exceptional bravery and devotion to duty at the Ward Road Gaol during the critical period between August 15 and August 30, when she was the only woman to remain at the Gaol.

On the night of August 20, when a bomb fell on Wayside Market adjoining the Gaol, and shells burst all around the institution, she continued calm and carried out her duties without flinching. It is considered that the example she set on that evening had a splendid effect on the prisoners generally.

When the Gaol was completely isolated and Dr. Vio, of the Public Health Department, remained as the only physician within the walls, Miss Harlamoff acted as his assistant and anaesthetist. She was instrumental in the success of emergency operations performed by Dr. Vio on prisoners and staff during that trying period.

Nurses Wounded Convict

On August 22 a Chinese convict was critically wounded by a shell early in the morning. Miss Harlamoff attended him continuously from the time he was injured until 8 o'clock in the evening, when he seemed to be resting more comfortably.

Finally, on August 27, when a shell struck the former Police Hospital and wounded eight Indian warders at 4 a.m., Miss Harlamoff assisted Dr. Vio and Dr. Hsu, a Chinese volunteer doctor, in giving first aid to the victims, some of whom were in critical condition.

Yesterday Miss Harlamoff modestly declined to pose for a photograph or to discuss her services at the Gaol during the crisis there.

"Oh, that was nothing," she said. "Why make any fuss about it?"

War Methods Creep Into Local Crime

Shanghai robbers have learned new tricks from the present hostilities.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning five Kompo men went to a Chinese house at 944 Avenue Foch with evil intent. Two of them produced pistols, but a third nonchalantly drew a "potato-masher" hand-grenade from his gown and waved it in front of the terrified residents.

Needless to say, the robbers had little difficulty in getting what they wanted. They departed with money, jewellery and clothing to the total value of $4,000.

RELIEF WORK TO BE CO-ORDINATED

New Committee Set Up Here by Chinese

To coordinate all local Chinese efforts toward the relief of war refugees in and around this city, a Shanghai branch of the Emergency Period Refugees Relief Committee was formally established yesterday at the Pootung Guild building, 1454 Avenue Edward VII.

Formed upon instructions from the Shanghai City Government, the committee comprises delegates from various official and public organizations and has taken over all relief work done by the Shanghai Relief Committee, organized by a few public associations. The latter committee wound up its affairs yesterday.

Among the official organs represented in the new committee are the Bureau of Social Affairs, the Martial Law Headquarters, the Nanking-Shanghai and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railways Administration, the Shanghai Navigation Bureau and various bureaux and departments under the City Government.

GERMAN PRESS DENIES U.S. ALLEGATIONS

Berlin, Sept. 29.

Leading papers here strongly protested against a report published by an American news agency that the Japanese are making use of new 35 centimetres Krupp guns in the bombardment of Shanghai and also against the assertions of American papers that Germany approves Japan's action in China and the air raids on Chinese cities. The "Voelkischer Beobachter" says that if it did not know that silence on these accusations would be construed as confirmation of their accuracy, it would probably have ignored them but desires once for all to stress that Germany has neither supplied Krupp guns to Japan nor would she sympathize with any of the atrocities of which Japan has been accused even if such atrocities were committed in the struggle against Bolshevism.—Trans-Ocean.

U.S. MARINES CHURCH AT CATHAY THEATRE

The Second Marine Brigade has arranged another outstanding Church Service and Concert programme tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the Cathay Theatre. Lieutenant Frank R. Hamilton, the Regimental Chaplain of the Fourth Marines, will conduct the worship and deliver the sermon on the subject "The Bible-Book Of Life."

THE CINEMA

"RIDING ON AIR"

Elmer Lane ..... Joe E. Brown
Doc Waddington ..... Guy Kibbee
Betty Harrison ..... Florence Rice
Harvey Schumann ..... Vinton Haworth
Bill Hilton ..... Anthony Nace
Mr. Harrison ..... Harlan Briggs
Mr. Byrd ..... Andrew Tombes
The Sheriff ..... Clem Bevans

Admirers of Mr. Joe E. Brown found him at his best yesterday at the Metropol Theatre as he portrayed a "hick-town" journalist and embryo aviator. His grimaces and odd movements, combined with his characteristic mannerisms, brought gales of laughter throughout the house and when he attempted to act as correspondent for a large Chicago journal he really was in his element. Mr. Guy Kibbee as a smooth-talking swindler made the most of a comparatively small role, but supporting honours go to Mr. Harlan Briggs, merchant and father of the heroine, played by Miss Florence Rice. Hers was a delicate touch and she shaded her portrayal to meet the whims of Mr. Brown. The plot is simple, as simple as the types in the cast, but in the hands of the seven principal players, moved smoothly and adequately.

"Swing Fever," a musical short was of the different type and thoroughly enjoyable.—F.L.T.
